Bluenose Refuses to Race Mayflower

SKIPPER WALTERS DEFIANT

Declines to Give Either Ford or Boston Boat a Race; Cup Is Held Up

Gloucester, Oct. 27. — The skippers are beginning to talk plain English hereabouts, as for instance, Captain Angus Walters of the Canadian schooner Bluenose, of Lunenburg:

"I'm not going to stay around here to wait for the decisions of any committee. Furthermore, I don't give a damn what the committee decides. I don't race the Henry Ford again, under any circumstances."

Takes Poison by Mistake in Dark, Woman Is Dead

Salem, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Margaret Phinney arose to get medicine. She seized a wrong bottle in the dark. She was found unconscious by her husband, some time later and died today at Salem Hospital of carbolic acid poisoning.

The Phinneys lived at No. 56 Webb street.

JAIL GIRL THIEF WHO BATTLES DETECTIVE

Dorothy La Marche, known otherwise to the police as Mrs. D'Andrea and as Vivian Martin, in a downtown store today objected to paying for a dress she took.

Mabel Ballou, a store detective, took the girl into custody and, with the police station her objective, started walking. Miss La Marche objected, slipped out of her coat and started running.

The detective pursued and caught the girl, who swung on the detective's chin, but failed to get away.

In court the girl was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction for shoplifting and fined $10 for assaulting the detective.

"BROKE," SAYS PONZI

Asks Court to Provide Funds to Call His Witnesses

Charles Ponzi is "broke," according to his statement to Judge Fosdick at his State trial today.

At opening of court Ponzi said:

"There are some very important witnesses I desire to call to prove my case. I am in bankruptcy and have no way to raise funds for their transportation and fees. It is my wish that the Commonwealth defray the expenses."

Ponzi's request was denied.

Robert De Nasselles, former United States vice consul at Naples, an expert on foreign exchange and general manager for Ponzi before the business closed, declared it was perfectly feasible to do the sort of business explained by Ponzi and make a profit in a short time.

McMASTERS SUMMONED.

William H. McMasters, who had charge of publicity and advertising for Ponzi, was summoned today as a witness by the State. He is due to be put on the stand Monday. He is also due for cross-examination by his former employer.

Edwin L. Pride, auditor of Ponzi accounts for the State, and Auditor Fitzenhouse were in court today.

PASTOR TELLS OF GOO-GOO EYES

Matron's Optics Unchristian Propaganda, Says Becket Minister at Trial

Pittsfield, Oct. 27.—The Rev. Walter C. Carroll wrote a letter to the standing committee of the First Congregational Church of Becket accusing Mrs. Eva E. Turner, middle-aged matron of the church, of making goo-goo eyes at him, which he called "immoral and unChristian."

This letter was the sensation of today's session of the trial of the clergyman's $10,000 damage suit against the standing committee of the Becket North Congregational church. He was formerly pastor of both churches. He accuses the North church committee, Omri S. Wills, Henry A. Bidwell and Roy S. Smith, of conspiring to discredit him, dismiss him from the church and prevent his getting other pastorates.

LETTER IN EVIDENCE.

The letter, which Mr. Carroll admitted writing, was put in evidence by Attorney Milton B. Warner, counsel for the defence, in cross-examination of Mr. Carroll. It read in part:

"To the Committees of the First Congregational Church of Becket:

"It becomes my unpleasant duty to request that a meeting of the First Congregational Church be called in a reasonable time to hear charges against Eva E. Turner, member of said church, as follows:

1. That on or about Sunday, Jan. 8, 1922, at the First Congregational Church of Becket, Eva E. Turner of Becket, upon entering the church door prior to the

Two nuns, S. L., Oct. 27—Sisters of Mercy of St. Louis ac Gonzague parish here today when a fire, starting in the cellar, filled the building with smoke. The children were occupying temporary quarters on the street floor during the erection of a new parochial school. The fire reached the third story through partitions but the damage is estimated at only $7,500.

$10,000 FIRE IN SOUTH BOSTON MOVIE HOUSE

Fire today at I street and East Broadway, South Boston, did $10,000 damage to the old building known as Gray's Hall, built in 1866.

The building contains a motion picture theatre known as the Imperial, which occupies the second and third floors; a drugstore, grocery and restaurant on the street floor and an auditorium on the third floor, shared by the theatre.

Two alarms were rung in and seven engine companies and four ladder trucks responded. The fire is believed to have started in the washroom on the first floor. It made rapid headway up the stairway. Most of the damage was on the first and second floors.

Had there been anybody in the theatre, the exits would have been cut off by smoke and flames. It was half an hour before the opening time of the theatre, however, and nobody was in the theatre.

The building is owned by the South Boston Building Association.

Traffic in Flood Square was cut off about half an hour, while the firemen were fighting the blaze.

5,000,000 OVER 10 ARE ILLITERATE

Bangor, Me., Oct. 27.—That American illiteracy, with 5,000,000 above ten years of age unable to read or write, affords breeding ground for Bolshevism, industrial destructiveness and all sorts of ills that may be avoided by properly educating the children, was the declaration of William Mather Lewis, chief of the Education Service of the United States Chamber of Commerce, at the Maine Teachers' convention.

PASTOR AND WIFE OF JUDGE DEAD IN RECTOR'S HOME

Havre, Mont., Oct. 27.—The Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, rector of St. Mark's Church of the Incarnation at Havre, widely known in the West as "the Bishop of all outdoors," was shot and instantly killed in his home at Havre today.

Mrs. Margaret Carleton, wife of former Judge Carleton of the District Court of Hill County, was also shot dead.

The bodies of both were found in the rectory.

It is believed that Mrs. Carleton killed Christler and then killed herself.

CUNARDER MAKING FAST RUN TO BOSTON

A radiogram from Captain Brown of the Cunard liner Tyrrhenia today stated that the liner is making an unusually fast passage from Liverpool and will arrive off the lightship tonight at 11 o'clock. She will dock at East Boston early Saturday morning. The liner was not expected before late Saturday or early Sunday morning. She has six saloon, 64 cabin and 158 steerage passengers for Boston and $65 in all classes for New York. She will sail for New York after disembarking her Boston passengers and return here to embark passengers for Liverpool on November 4.

EYE WITNESS SAW WOMAN SOBBING OVER SLAIN PASTOR'S BODY

Hall-Mills two fold crime. The murderers were two—a man and woman. The woman I have definitely identified as a woman who stood out most prominent in the suspicion from the first. She is—(Here Mrs. Gibson named a woman who has been under suspicion).

By the light of a tardy moon, I saw that woman bend over the bleeding bodies of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills and weep convulsive tears. I heard that woman sobbing beneath the crab apple tree until dangerously late.

An hour earlier I heard that same woman scream in a loud, angry manner: "Explain these, explain these!"

Then I heard the mumbled quarrelling of four persons—two men and two women. Soon, I heard one shot and the terrified cry of another woman—that of Mrs. Mills, I am sure, crying: "Oh, please! please! please!"

There was no more talking, but very soon I heard three more shots. The most important thing I have to say here is something that I have not revealed to the prosecutors. It is this—I returned to the scene of the murders after midnight on the night of September 14. I returned to search for a moccasin which I discovered I had lost on my way home. The moccasin was a gift from a dead friend and I did not wish to lose it.

SOBBING OVER BODIES.

I waited at home for an hour before I got up courage to return. When I came near the spot where I thought the shots had been fired, I gave up the search for the moccasin and cut into the field near the Phillips Farm. I tied June (the mule she was riding) to a stub and walked in the direction from whence I had heard the shots.

A woman's convulsive sobbing soon brought me to a stop. It was now about 1 o'clock and the moon was out. I had no flashlight, but I could easily discern the same woman I had seen in the lane earlier in the evening. She had the same light hair and wore the same light-colored coat, and no hat. She was kneeling over the two dark objects, sobbing as though her heart would break.

"I did not know until Saturday morning that the prone forms were the dead Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills, but the sobbing was beneath the crabapple tree.

(The bodies were carefully laid out, with folded arms, under this same crabapple tree when found.)

It was evidently she who closed the eyelids of the minister, a fact which has been much commented on.

DID NOT IDENTIFY KILLER.

"I have not identified the man of the murder party. He had more hair and was bigger than the man under suspicion.

(Here Mrs. Gibson named a person who has furnished an alibi.)

"He had a higher forehead than another suspect.

Neither woman called out, "Oh, Henry," as has been printed.

In telling my story to the prosecutors I said the whole affair seemed like an "O. Henry tale"—a fiction story by the late author, O. Henry—and that is how the name "Henry" came to be circulated.

The man looked like a negro to me. I could have sworn he was a negro. I think it is possible the man companion of the woman was a hired negro assassin. The prosecutors are now working on a negro clue.

At first I really did not think that there had been murders. Folks round here often shoot to scare away people at night. I really thought a girl had been attacked and I wanted to help her. But when I saw the kneeling, sobbing figure I knew I was not needed and went home.

SORRY FOR THE WOMAN.

I kept quiet for a couple of weeks because I had identified to my own satisfaction some of the persons in the tragedy and I had found they were money people. Also, I felt very sorry for the woman under suspicion.

There is no doubt Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills were surprised in a love tryst. It is my theory that the first shot was intended for Mrs. Mills but instead Rev. Hall got it.

'Hard Feelings? Not Much!' Declare Rival Skippers

Gloucester, Oct. 27.—As Captain Clayton Morrissey of the Henry Ford, on his way to present the formal protest against the victory won yesterday by the Bluenose, met her skipper, Captain Angus Walters.

"We had a good sail yesterday, didn't we, Angus?" said Captain Morrissey.

"I'll say we did," was the reply.

A bystander, observing that this indicated no hard feelings, Captain Walters said: "Hard feelings? Not much!"

And Captain Morrissey added: "A little thing like that won't come between us."

waiting to be called at State witnesses.

Charles M. Weinberg of Roxbury, salesman of household goods, resumed the stand in direct test mony. He said he worked as a Ponzi subagent under Agents Schaeffer and Askey.

Cross-examined by Ponzi he said he had no direct knowledge that Ponzi was engaged in exchange of international reply coupons, nor any direct knowledge as to the source of profits, but he always understood and still believed that international reply coupons were the basis of the Ponzi business.

De Nesselles lives in Lynnfield Centre. He said Ponzi explained the international reply coupon business to him and it made such an impression that he took a position as general manager at $1,000 a month.

He never saw any international reply coupons in the office, but Ponzi talked with him about sending money abroad.

Cross-examined by George Stanley Harvey, counsel for agent-defendants, he was asked: "Did you know it was perfectly feasible to do the sort of business explained by Ponzi and make a profit?" The witness answered: "Certainly."

Q.—Did you know that the profits could be made in a short time? A.—Not in the United States, but in Italy and Switzerland, yes.

Q.—Well, in the United States and other countries within 90 days? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you believed this business to be perfectly practical? A.—Yes.

RECEIVED $4,000 IN ALL.

Witness said he told his friends about it, and bought Ponzi notes while the run was on. He received 10 per cent. commission, bringing in about $50,000 of business. Asked if he received $24,400 as commissions witness denied it, and was permitted to explain. In subsequent cross-examination by Attorney John F. McDonald, that this was $56,400 Ponzi deposited in the witness' name to meet current expenses.

Q.—What did you clean up? A.—I "cleaned up" nothing.

Q.—Did you make any profit from the Ponzi business? A.—Yes—$4,000—$1,000 salary, $1,500 on notes, the balance on commissions.

Q.—In one month? A.—Yes.

READY TO INDICT IN MURDER MYSTERY

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 27 (By International News Service) Deputy Attorney-General Wilbur A. Mott, chief of the investigators of the murder of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. James Mills declared today he had obtained sufficient evidence to secure the indictment of one or two persons by the Grand Jury.

"Lincoln's Hate for South" Caused Civil War, Says Woman

Decatur, Ga., Oct. 27.—Responsibility for the Civil War was laid at the door of President Abraham Lincoln by Miss Mildred Rutherford of Athens, State historian of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, in an address before the Georgia convention of that organization here.

"Lincoln hated the aristocrats of the South, whether slave holders or not," Miss Rutherford declared.

When she became historian Miss Rutherford declared she became convinced that Lincoln was responsible for bringing war between the States.

"I suspected it more strongly when I came into possession of the secret order of Lincoln to General Winfield Scott to hold himself in readiness to arm and provision Fort Sumter after his inauguration."

75 FLEE BLAZE IN SOUTH END

were driven to the street when a fire swept through the upper floors of a four-story wooden tenement block at Nos. 29-35 Rochester street, South End.

Among those forced to flee into the cold night air were Bessie Tobin, Ray Colton, Grace Lepardo and Eva Tagliman. All escaped unharmed. The occupants included thirty women and small children.

While the firemen fought their way through smoke-filled corridors to the top floor and attic, the refugees were hastily huddled into the homes of neighbors to take shelter from the biting wind. Serious results were feared because of the exposure of the scantily-clad children.

Fully half of the occupants of the building had retired for the night when the blaze started. It was discovered by a pedestrian who saw a thin streamer of smoke curling up from under the eaves. He sounded an alarm, but the flames spread so rapidly that the entire attic and roof were ablaze before the companies reached the scene.

Although the fire burned furiously, the firemen were able to confine it to the upper floors. The occupants of the building were got out in an orderly manner, officers passing through the corridors to warn them while the firemen, up in the attic, fought the blaze.

The origin of the fire is unknown. After half an hour's work the firemen were able to get it, with an estimated loss of $1,000.

EDISON THIEF SENTENCED TO 3 TO 5 YEARS

From three to five years in State Prison was the sentence handed down today by Judge Sisk of the Superior Court, in the case of Harold S. Adams, former bookkeeper of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, for embezzling $28,335.3).

Adams' shortage covered from July, 1919, to December 1921. When first arrested he told the police that he bet the money "on the ponies," dropping his cash in a Providence gambling house. He has already instituted proceedings to collect $20,000 from gamblers in Providence.

Adams was in the employ of the Edison Company for a number of years. His arrest was caused by the return of a cancelled check, to the company given to Adams by a customer, but of which there was no record against this customer's account.

When arrested Adams was getting $40 a week. He owned his automobile and had a comfortable home at No. 48 South street, Malden. He is married and has two children.

Radical Rockefeller
Sensible Mr. Mellon
The Infant Cursed
"Mile a Minute" Is Slow

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1922, by Star Company

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., may find himself classed "a dangerous radical." They won't lock him up, for fifty millions and the letters J. W. don't go together.

But Mr. Rockefeller has actually denounced coal mine owners in Pennsylvania as "unwise and unjust" in their treatment of working men, "urging a radical change."

Not long ago one great mine owner solemnly announced that God had chosen him to run mines for the benefit of inferior human creatures. Compared to Rockefeller that mine owner, in wealth, is like the lowest paid worker compared with him. He would dislike Rockefeller's statement, but would cringe, bow and say, "I'll take back that remark about God. You know more about Him than I do, Mr. Rockefeller; you have more money than I have."

If the younger Rockefeller should escape from the overwhelming load of money, tradition, environment, flattery and power that weigh upon him, it would be a miracle. And he could do an extraordinary amount of useful work in this world.

Mr. Mellon has decided, sensibly, that crews of French and Italian ships may drink their ordinary light wines, even when tied fast to prohibition American docks. The Italian law compels ship owners to give sailors their wine.

Before they attack Mr. Mellon, American prohibitionists should ask themselves how they would feel if they were not allowed to drink water on an American ship in Italian waters.

To the Italian worker, light red wine is the only drink he knows. Millions of Italians and French men would no more think of drinking a glass of pure water than a good prohibitionist would of drinking pure alcohol. America should be satisfied to make laws for Americans. If we make ourselves all pure, we shall be doing pretty well.

An extraordinary case in Turin. A woman whose baby was ill called in a sorcerer. He said: "Boil the child's shirt together with the liver of a white chicken stuck full of pins, in a new casserole. Keep boiling until you hear the sound of bells."

The mother was told that if no ringing of bells was heard within three days, nothing could heal the child except a Madame Morando, for she cast a spell upon the child. No bells were heard. The mother invited Madame Morando to her home. The stricken infant rose up and cursed Madame Morando. The light went out, then reappeared. The mother beat Madame Morando. Now there is a lawsuit.

It is hard to realize that only a few years ago practically all human beings believed such nonsense. It was against the law to make a wax image of another person and put pins in it, because that would cause the other person to die.

Those ...cused of crime were or...

"I'M A LONELY SOUL," SAYS DORIS BENSON

HOME CLOSED TO GIRL AT GARLAND FARM

The Flapper has told at length of the little group at Charles A. Garland's "April Farm" at North Carver, where she gained admission as a member of the colony. She has described her talks with Alice Edgerton, Doris Benson, "Ann" and "Harriet." The last two named are married. "Harriet" reads to the little group from a book in which the writer rebels against the present social order. After a discussion of the workings of Walt Whitman the girls retire in the unheated shack while the cold winds blow through the thin sides of the building. Now go on with the story:

By THE FLAPPER
(CARL FRINK)

I was awakened by the most heartfelt sigh I have ever heard. It came from the general direction of the brown O. D. sleeping bag on the floor. Morning—and Alice Edgerton had to get up and build the fire.

"Was it cold?" she asked me.

"No," I lied.

"Well, I jolly well was," answered the scientific for and believer in truth. She squirmed out of her sleeping apparatus and shivered into her shoes.

It was scarcely light in the chicken coop. The clock was still on the credit side of 6. Outside queer, early-morning sounds drifted from the barnyard. Alice was showing the spirit of the early Christian martyrs.

"It was Doris' turn to build the fire," she said, between chattering teeth. "But here it is almost six and no Dorrie. That's a regular Doris trick."

Alice Wields Ax

Shes had barreled to the woodpile behind the stove but found it quite empty. Arming herself with an ax which she took from a nail on the wall, she ran out to chop down the forest primeval. As she opened the door a chill gust of wind whistled through the coop.

The fire was roaring in the stove when Dorrie came in, rubbing her hands. It was a quarter after six.

"Late as usual," greeted Alice with a smile.

Dorrie returned the smile, very much abashed.

"You'll all have to get up," Alice sang out to the rest of us. "Harley's out in the fields and he'll be wanting his breakfast in a minute."

Breaks Ice in Pail

I dressed and Alice gave me a towel and told me I'd find the tiled bath outside the door. I had to break through a layer of ice to get water from the pail to wash with. When I had finished I hurried indoors to thaw out again.

Alice was cooking a pan of oatmeal. I worried lest this, too, would go to the calf. Harriet was heating water to wash with; I fancy Harriet would rather be a farmer in theory than in practice. Anna was doing a set of exercises in the hope of warming up.

Garland had come in from the fields and was chopping wood outside the door.

At breakfast—oatmeal and more black bread—Anna related a dream she had had in the night.

Dreams Husband Dead

"My husband died, she said. "What does that mean, Dorrie?" (Doris is the psycho-analyst of the colony.)

"I daren't tell you," replied Dorrie, smiling.

"I can stand it," grinned Anna. "C'mon, tell me."

"Its wish-fulfillment," replied Dorris.

"You mean that I wish my husband was dead?" cried Anna. "How horrible of you, Dorrie."

"Not dead, exactly," explained Doris Benson. "Just out of the way. Death in your dream is a symbol. You wouldn't want him to die, but you might want to put him out of your way for a while. He may be interfering with some cherished plan."

Anna looked thoughtful.

"I think you're a wretch, Dorris," she said. "Alice, pass the cream."

Cream Is Limited

"Thee may have cream either on thy oatmeal or in thy coffee," pronounced Alice, passing the jug, "but not in both. There isn't enough to go round."

"Here's a dream for you, Dorrie," said Harriet. "I was going up a hill and at the top I saw a whole bunch of yellow chickens. What does that mean?"

"I have to figure it out," said Doris. "It's more complex than Anna's dream. It sounds like a repressed dream, which is the worst possible kind."

"Don't bother," said Harriett. "I made it up."

After breakfast the girls went out to pull carrots and beets. Barley went out to his tractor, and Dorris and I remained in the house with the dishes.

I was polishing a milk pail when Dorrie suddenly looked at me and asked: "Are you sad?"

I refrained from saying, "No, only cold and hungry," and said, simply, "No, why?"

"I thought I saw a lonely look in your eyes," she answered, looking at me, strangely.

"You look sad yourself," I dared to say, then.

"I am," replied Doris. "I am a lonely soul. I, too—nobody."

"But isn't that what you wanted?" I asked her. "Isn't that what you came out here on the farm for? To be alone?"

Doris was silent a moment.

Turned Out of Home

"It's hard," she said, slowly. "It's hard to be thrown out of your home because of your beliefs. The people I lived with told me to go—and they called me a harlot.

"They called me that because they think I ought to marry Barley if I'm going to live out on the farm with him. They can't understand how two people can live as we do in the same place—on the same ground, that is—and not be 'living in sin' as they call it."

"But," I said, bewildered, "you don't care, do you, what the world thinks?"

"No," she said. "Only you get used to your friends, and you miss them when they quit you. I haven't any friends now, and one really needs friends."

Finds Life Lonely

"At school I never made a friend because I couldn't find anybody who believed as I do. But how badly I want a friend! Life is very, very lonely, when you travel it alone."

And the tears that had been brimming in Doris' eyes overflowed and fell in the dishwater.

"Would you like to see my shack?" Doris asked me, wiping her eyes on her khaki sleeve.

I told her I would. Outside the chicken coop she slipped her arm through mine and together we walked through the woods, about three hundred feet in the opposite direction from the farm buildings. There we came to a tiny one-room shack almost hidden by pine trees.

"Here," said Dorris, "is where I live—alone."

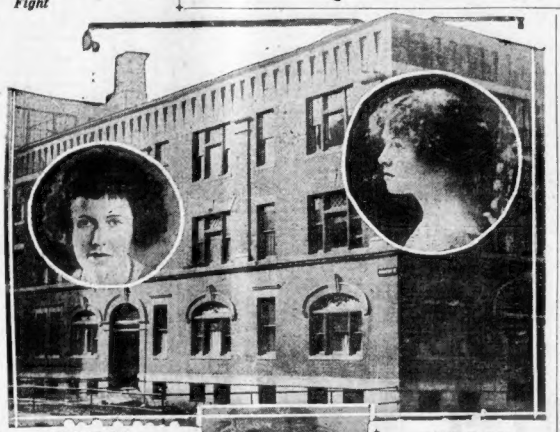
Victims of Row Over Back Bay Chimney

29 Families at Norway and Bickerstaff Streets Involved in Owners' Fight

Works 62 Days For Taxes



HELEN DAVIS.

NO HEAT WHILE OWNERS FIGHT OVER CHIMNEY

Tenants—29 of 'em—in the six suites in the apartment houses at No. 100 Norway street and No. 49 Bickerstaff street, Back Bay, read the newspapers eagerly each day.

They are interested mainly in the weather reports.

If the bureau reports a cold wave there is desolation, for they have no more heat than an Eskimo pie.

The prospects are that they will not have any until the owners of the two apartment houses get a court decision as to their rights in a chimney. A. Decerene, owner of the apartment houses, claims he purchased them three years ago and never had any trouble with chimneys until September 15. He said the person from whom he purchased the buildings, who is owner of the three houses adjoining No. 100 Norway street, claims ownership of the wall separating Mr. Decerene's property from the next house, and alleges that the chimney, which is connected with the furnaces in both No. 100 and No. 102 Norway street, comes within this wall.

Three times, Decerene alleges, the chimney was stopped up and twice he had it cleaned out, but the third time he took the case to his lawyer.

In the meantime the tenants, shivering in overcoats and getting what heat they can from gas ranges, oil heaters, gas lamps and arguments, hint that the landlord will have difficulty in collecting his rent by the first of the month. There will be plenty of heat then, but it will not come from the furnace.

FAIR WEATHER FOR BIG GRID BATTLES

Fair weather is promised football fans for tomorrow, cheering news for the college clans. Temperatures will run 50 or better and so no need for a heavy sweater. There'll probably be no change until Monday, for the weather man says it'll be nice Sunday. Fresh winds will blow from northwest and west, which suits smelt fishermen best.

FIRE SWEEPS FAMOUS MOUNTAIN RESORT

San Bernardino, Calif., Oct. 27.—Rain from storm clouds that appear to be gathering was the only hope today for checking the forest fire that is sweeping through the mountain resort section north of the famous "Rim of the World Route," according to telephone reports reaching here. All available fire fighters have been ordered out to help check the flames.

VICTORIA CONOS.

Building at No. 100 Norway street and 49 Bickerstaff street, Back Bay, the chimney of which is in dispute, and in the meantime the tenants have no heat. In the pictures above Misses Davis and Clark live on the Bickerstaff street side, while Miss Conas resides at No. 100 Norway street.

ONE DEAD, 3 HURT IN AUTO SKID

One man was killed and three injured by the skidding and overturning of an automobile on the Revere Beach boulevard between Revere street and the Point of Pines.

The dead man is Hollis H. Bracy, 34, of No. 1258 Commonwealth avenue, Allston. He died from a fracture of the skull at the Chelsea Memorial Hospital. Those injured are Mrs. E. J. Martin, operating the machine and receiving deep wounds, Ernest J. Martin.

Mrs. Hollis Bracy, who was cut about the face and received injuries to her chest; Mrs. Ernest J. Martin of No. 1254 Commonwealth avenue, owner of the car, who received a broken collar bone and injuries to her left shoulder and ribs, and Ernest J. Martin, who was

BOSTON POLICEMAN OUSTED BY WILSON

Patrolman Patrick Gilmartin of the Mattapan police station has been dismissed from the police department by order of Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. The officer was tried before a trial board consisting of Captains Robert Grant, Mathew Dailey and Perley Skillings. They returned a verdict of guilty on the charge of neglect of duty.

GLADYS CLARKE.

SAYS U. S. SHIPS MUST BE DRY IN ALL PORTS

New York, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—American steamships cannot carry or sell liquor in any part of the world, Federal Judge Hand held today in a decision dismissing the suit of two American steamship companies to enjoin enforcement of the Daugherty Prohibition ruling.

The ruling was in a decision supplemental to the one rendered on Monday, which dismissed the application of foreign ship lines attacking the validity of the Daugherty ruling that no ship could enter or clear from an American port with liquor on board.

Cletus Keating, of counsel for the International Mercantile Marine, operating the American ships Finland, St. Paul and Kroonland, asked Judge Hand, after the original decision, for a special decision as to the rights of American ships on the high seas. He was joined in this request by Reid L. Carr, of counsel for the United American line.

Mr. Keating said today that Judge Hand's decision prohibited the mere presence of liquor on board American ships in any part of the world.

ARREST EX-PREMIER IN GREEK WAR PROBE

London, Oct. 27.—Former Premier Nikolas Kalogeropoulos of Greece was arrested today on the order of the Commission of Inquiry into the Greek Campaign in Asia Minor, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens. Responsibility for the recent disasters, including the Smyrna campaign, are being largely attributed to Prince Andrew, brother of former King Constantine, and M. Kalogeropoulos, the dispatch says.

OPEN WAR ON LIQUOR SELLERS

Boston Police in City-Wide Drive to Stamp Out Organized Bootlegging

Boston police are waging an organized war on bootleggers and moonshiners.

A city wide crusade, directed by Captain Charles T. Reardon, has netted nearly 6500 gallons of liquor, more than 20,000 gallons of mash, a score or more of stills, of which five are of 100-gallon capacity.

In spite of this seventeen men and three women were picked up unconscious from moonshine on city streets during the past seven days.

One victim, a woman, is dead at Southern Mortuary. Two men are dying at City Hospital. At least three others are in a serious condition.

CLEAN UP SOUTH END.

The centre of the moonshining and bootlegging activities is in the South End, police say.

The majority of victims were found in that district. Two or three were taken from the North End and about as many were found in the West End.

Owing to the serious proportions of the moonshine traffic, Captain Reardon, director of the headquarters liquor and drug squads, has concentrated his forces against the distillers rather than the pedlars.

"Let us get at the source and block them in that way," said the captain.

The records of the department show the success of this movement. In all fifty-seven raids have been made this month.

Examination of court records discloses that there are at least six persons who have six to twenty charges of violation of the liquor laws pending against them in Superior Court and still they continue to engage in the traffic.

Police arrest offenders, take them into the lower courts, obtain convictions, and the prisoners appeal and furnish bail.

The cases then go to the higher courts and there attorneys manage to obtain continuances in that way delay prosecution for months while the violator continues to carry on.

The wholesale extent of the operations of moonshines has surprised even police officers. Recent investigations by Sergeant Daniel J. Hines disclosed three buildings devoted entirely to the manufacture of moonshine. In one month the sergeant personally conducted 182 raids.

LABOR'S YEARLY BURDEN

Figures Show Workingman's Share in State Much Heavier Than Other Sections

Every workingman in this State works sixty-two days a year to pay his share of the taxes.

Out of every eight-hour day, he gives one hour and twenty-two minutes of his time to pay the cost of government.

The above figures were stated by Colonel Charles R. Gow, president of the Associated Industries, to the Special Commission on Municipal Expenditures, at the State House.

Gow said the total expenditures for public purposes in the country in 1920 were $1,700,000,000. In 1921 they had reached the gigantic sum of $9,373,000,00, an increase of 450 per cent. Twenty years ago, the workingman and woman gave but twenty-three days a year to paying for government expenses.

AVERAGE INCOME $783.

He said the income of the people of this State three years ago was $3,000,000,000 and that they paid $477,300,000, or 15.8 per cent. of their income, for taxes. The average income of the people was $783 a year and $123.91 was paid out in taxes.

Gow said the per capita tax here is exceeded only by New York. He said it is twice as much as the Southern States which have begun to compete against us, especially in the textile trades. He said the tax rate sometimes makes up the difference between profit and loss of big industries and Massachusetts is doomed to suffer irreparably, perhaps, unless the cost of government is cut down.

WOULD CUT OUT FRILLS.

Gow was asked to name some of the "frills" in public expenses that might be cut out. He said he wouldn't call them frills, but two people ought to be asked how much further they want to go in the building of playgrounds, gymnasia, parks and municipal buildings.

"You can't have a street light on every corner unless you have a tax rate," said Theodore N. Waddell, the State accountant. "You can't have schools, you can't have nurses, you can't have macadam roads unless you have a tax rate."

FEW BUY CITY COKE AT CENT A POUND

Six municipal coke stations were opened in Boston today. Coke was sold for one cent a pound.

The first day's business was a fizzle. The price evidently was to blame, as peas coal and, in some places, nut coal in bags could be purchased for the same rate.

In the city paving department yards on Albany street, South End, a thousand bags of coke in 20-pound bags were ready for distribution at 8 o'clock. The first customer did not show up until after 9:30 o'clock.

LITTLE RUSH FOR COKE.

In this section in several stores pea coal and nut coal is available at 70 cents for a bag of 20 pounds.

In South Boston the station was announced as opening at the old police station on Athens street and Broadway. The lack of demand for coke at a cent per pound was evidently foretold in that section, for the station was not open up to noon and only a half dozen around looking for coke. Coal in this section in bags was being sold for about one cent a pound.

In Charlestown, at Medford street, the same situation prevailed, while in the West End, business was slightly more brisk.

In Roxbury the demand was way below expectations and in East Boston little business was reported.

STATIONS TO BE OPENED.

The stations are open from 8 in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Thus far the coke is being bagged in thirty-pound bags only, but later will be available in fifteen and eighteen-pound bags.

The stations that will be in operation by the first of the week are as follows: Water Department yard, Medford and Tufts streets, Charlestown; paving yard, Albany street, South End; paving yard, Eagle street, South Boston; paving yard, Highland street, Roxbury; Sanitary Department yard, North Grove street, West End, and old Police Station 6, Athens street, South Boston.

Asserts Foch Wiped Out French Debt to America

Paris, Oct. 27.—France paid her war debt to the United States with the genius of her generals, and therefore owes nothing, according to France's Marshal, minister of finances, who said at a dinner to bankers and business men:

"France furnished the science of her engineers and inventors and genius of her military chiefs.

"In terminating the war in 1918, Marshal Foch saved the lives of thousands of young Americans.

"Thus the payment of France's debt to America is easy. We have only to put on our bill 'to the genius of Foch, one hundred billion dollars,' thus leaving America in debt to us."

2 DAYS IS LONG TIME WHEN BOY IS HUNGRY

Police of Portsmouth, N. H., demonstrated today for William Butler of Dorchester that time, as Einstein says, is merely relative. William's "long time gone" lasted two days.

William Butler

William disagreed with his stepmother, Mrs. John Butler of No. 19 Puritan avenue, in Wednesday argument. He packed a suit case.

"Goodbye," said William to his sister Muriel and his younger brother, Lawrence. "This is probably the last you will see of me for a long time."

Muriel Butler.

He picked up rides to Newburyport, hiked along to Portsmouth and was gathered in by the police, tired and hungry. Mrs. Butler received word today that the lad was found.

WORLD WAR ON DRYS IS UNDERWAY

Brussels, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—A world fight against prohibition, with the United States as the centre of the wet campaign, was planned at the closing session of the secret conference of anti-prohibitionist.

The meeting ended with a banquet which was marked by the number and value of rare old vintages served to the militant wets.

Count De Mun of France was named head of "The International Committee of Defence." This committee was described as a force to bring the dry people back into the wet fold. Next year's campaign has been planned secretly, but it is known that the principal effort will be made in the United States.

The members of the committee think that recent incidents in connection with prohibition in America, particularly the difficulties over ships, have created a favorable atmosphere for the great anti-prohibitionist assault.

How I Provide Against Coughs and Colds

BY A MOTHER

"Last winter I resolved to provide in advance for the season's colds and coughs—and I did it. I spent less money and I had no doctor bills. I suffered no dread, no anxiety; I had no sleepless, worried nights—watching my children through the dangerous period of a bad cold. I want other mothers to know how I did it—my gratitude will then be theirs.

"I bought of my druggist a bottle of Essence Mentho-Laxene and mixed it into a pint with home-made sugar syrup. It's no trouble—three minutes, a little sugar and hot water, that's all. Just follow plain easy directions. The very first dose brings relief and I have not had a serious cold or cough in my family since I adopted this pure good medicine. It contains no chloroform, or narcotics whatever. It's delicious and children don't fight it. I give it to my baby, my two older children and both my husband and self have found it supreme in every way. It destroys the cold, stops the cough, corrects catarrhal trouble and prevents the dangerous after effects of a cold, because it is antiseptic, mildly laxative and tonic to the system.

"The manufacturers guarantee every bottle satisfactory or money back."

The Essence Mentho-Laxene sold by leading druggists, price 75c, or direct by mail. "Best ever sold for cough and cold."

PIRATES STEAL SHIP BUT RUN HER ASHORE

Hamburg, Oct. 27.—A quartet of twentieth century pirates climbed from their rowboat aboard the motor schooner Bertha in the lower Elbe yesterday and in broad daylight subdued the captain and crew and started down stream with the vessel.

They were better pirates than navigators and soon ran the vessel aground, causing its destruction and the loss of its cargo of quebracho valued at 20,000,000 marks.

The four pirates bound the captain as soon as they got aboard and after scaring the crew by firing pistols, it was easy to imprison them. Then the four put on seamen's clothing, hoisted the anchor and set off toward the sea.

When the ship went aground the prospect of drowning in the wreckage so frightened them that they climbed the mast and signalled for help from a passing schooner.

Once the rescuers were aboard the distressed schooner the skipper with a wink and a gesture tipped them off to the character of the four men who were seemingly in charge of affairs. They were taken into custody and identified as having escaped from the Hamburg jail.

BROCKTON UNION DENOUNCES CENSOR

Brockton, Oct. 27.—The Boleather Workers' Union of this city has gone on record as being opposed to the censorship of motion pictures. At a regular meeting of the organization, Miss Foley of the Boston Central Labor Union, pointed out the danger in the proposed censorship. The organization also endorsed the efforts of the general office to improve the Compensation Act.

Eye Fatigue Is Relieved by Reading 'Green'

DO you work hard about eight hours a day and then go home pretty tired?

If you do, better look out for your eyes by reading the Boston American Green Edition. The reason is founded on scientific truths, as explained by Dr. Edwin P. Jewett, chief of the optometrical service for the Gilchrist Company.

Dr. E. P. Jewett

"Fatigue is nothing more than the presence of certain toxins in the body," says Dr. Jewett. "If you raise and lower your right arm until it begins to feel as if you were lifting a hundred-pound weight, you may know that the muscles of that arm have become filled with fatigue toxins. A toxin is simply a poison.

"It might be safe to say that under average conditions no one would suffer from eye strain if he never became fatigued. When he is fatigued he must exercise exceptional care. For this reason the Boston American Green Edition is especially valuable. The green tint is restful to tired eyes, and to a large extent eliminates the danger of eye-strain."

dered by the judge to walk barefoot on red hot plowshares to prove their innocence. In the case of a noble lady, an ingenious, kind-hearted bishop had the plowshares painted red. The lady walked barefoot on the cold red iron, and was triumphantly acquitted.

Sometimes the accused was thrown into deep water. If he sank he was innocent. If he floated, the devil was helping him and he was guilty.

"A mile a minute." Once that expressed everything we could imagine in speed. The other day Allison, United States mail filer, carried 500 pounds of mail from the West 421 miles in 183 minutes.

General Mitchell predicts that men will soon fly across the ocean in six hours. Real high speed ought to mean about 1,000 miles an hour, the apparent speed of the sun going around the earth.

Jack Bergen, handsome actor, said contemptuously, "All women are rotten." The husband of the woman to whom he particularly referred then killed him, and now the husband is acquitted. The judge told the jury there could be no acquittal, but there WAS one. The jury disliked Bergen's opinion of women.

It wouldn't have sentenced him to death for his stupid remark, but because of that remark it approved his killing.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott moved West from La Porte, Ind., the other day, taking thirteen children with them, buying only two railroad tickets. The oldest of the thirteen children, triplets, were four and a half years old. The youngest, twins, each six months. That mother in ten years has had triplets five times and twins twice, and lost four children.

You can't add anything to that.

Zonite

The Greatest of ALL Antiseptics!

The most remarkable chemical discovery of the century

ZONITE is a highly concentrated, stabilized and perfected form of the Carrel-Dakin Solution, the marvelous antiseptic discovered by two eminent scientists of the Rockefeller Institute of New York City, which accomplished such remarkable results in the hospitals of the Allied armies and saved the lives of hundreds of thousands of desperately wounded men after over two hundred other antiseptics had been tried and found inefficient and undependable. This form of antiseptic is in universal daily use by the medical profession throughout the entire civilized world. Authorities agree that it represents the most important advance made by medical science since the discovery of anaesthesia.

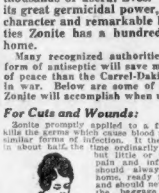
Zonite by standard laboratory tests has more than double the germ-killing power of pure carbolic acid; it is forty times as efficient as the strongest solution of carbolic acid, iodine or bichloride of mercury that can be used with safety on the human body. It is from forty to one hundred times as powerful as peroxide of hydrogen and many of the mild, pleasant-tasting antiseptics heretofore used by the public.

Zonite is absolutely safe, sure and dependable. It is a powerful disinfectant, antiseptic and deodorant. It kills germs with astonishing rapidity and, used in proper concentrations, disinfects everything with which it comes in contact. Although more than twice as powerful as pure carbolic acid, Zonite is non-caustic and non-irritating. On the other hand, it actually promotes tissue growth and is probably the greatest healing agent known to materia medica. Zonite is non-poisonous and will rid the home of deadly poisons which have cost the world tens of thousands of useful lives. On account of its great germicidal power, non-poisonous character and remarkable healing properties Zonite has a hundred uses in the home.

Many recognized authorities state that this form of antiseptic will save more lives in time of peace than the Carrel-Dakin Solution saved in war. Below are some of the marvels that Zonite will accomplish when used in the home:

For Cuts and Wounds:

Zonite promptly applied to a fresh cut or wound kills the germs which cause blood poisoning and other similar forms of infection. It then heals the wound in about half the time ordinarily required and with but little or none of the usual pain and inflammation. Zonite should always be kept in the home, ready for any emergency, and should never be omitted from the baggage of the traveler, camper or sportsman.

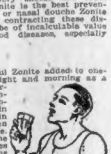


For Preventing Contagious Diseases:

Until the discovery of this form of antiseptic it was impossible to introduce freely into the mouth and nose any antiseptic solution at sufficient strength to effectively destroy disease germs. It is in the prevention of germ diseases, therefore, that Zonite finds its greatest field of usefulness. During epidemics of colds, grippe, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, sore throat and other respiratory diseases when every sneeze and draft scatters millions of germs, Zonite is the best preventive. Used as a spray, gargle or nasal douche Zonite will reduce the likelihood of contracting these diseases to a minimum. It will be of incalculable value during epidemics of childhood diseases, especially among school children.

For Mouth Wash:

A solution of one teaspoonful Zonite added to one-fourth glass of water used night and morning as a mouth wash will prevent pyorrhea. This statement is endorsed by leading bacteriologists of the country. Used in stronger dilution, the disease in its earlier stages has been checked in a few days' time. Zonite also strengthens the gums, whitens and preserves the teeth, purifies and freshens the breath and renders the membranes and tissues of the mouth less susceptible to germ attack. Canker sores, mouth sores, blisters, etc., yield readily to this treatment.



For Burns, Scalds and Blisters:

Zonite is especially valuable in the treatment of burns, scalds and blisters. It prevents infection, removes charred or dead tissue, reduces inflammation, clears sloughing and accelerates healing. It also greatly lessens scars and disfigurations that usually follow these accidents.

For Personal Hygiene:

Zonite is the ideal antiseptic for personal hygiene. It is no longer necessary for women to brave the dangers of harmful, poisonous compounds such as bichloride of mercury, phenol and creosol solutions, all of which are tremendously harmful and deleterious to health when used for douche medication. Any physician will verify this statement. Write for Zonite booklet on Personal Hygiene for Women.

For Catarrh:

On account of its great germicidal strength, non-poisonous character and extraordinary healing properties Zonite is probably the safest, surest and most efficient local treatment known to materia medica for this condition. Used as a spray or douche it quickly loosens the hardened accumulations of mucous matter, clears up the nasal passages and soothes and heals congested membranes.

For the Sick Room:

Zonite is indispensable in the sick room. It is a powerful disinfectant, germ agent and deodorant. It destroys germs promptly and effectively and will disinfect fever thermometers, bed linen, dishes, drinking glasses and other sick room utensils. The action of Zonite on the air is to destroy foul odors and liberate fresh oxygen. It imparts a distinct buoyancy and freshness and renders it decidedly more healthy instead of merely adding a distinct odor of its own.

Sore Throat:

Nearly all ailments of the throat are due to bacterial infection. Prompt relief therefore can not be obtained without the use of an effective germicide. Although it possesses greater germicidal powers than many poisonous antiseptics Zonite can be freely applied to the throat without harm or injury. Used as a gargle in five parts water as a gargle usually clears up and controls throat infections. In severe cases, especially when ulcerations are present, the throat should be swabbed with pure Zonite. Begin treatment promptly when symptoms first appear.

For Old Sores:

Zonite is probably the greatest healing agent known for old sores, running sores and slow healing wounds. Used in a strong dilution it will dissolve dead tissue, remove proud flesh, reduce inflammation and stop the discharge of pus, rendering the sore clean and healthy. A milder solution used daily will aid in rapid healing.

For Social Diseases:

Protection against and prevention of these infections constitutes the foremost duties of proper citizenship. As a preventive against the spread of these diseases Zonite is of inestimable value. Zonite douches and washes, used with the proper fixtures of vessels, bathtube, washbowls closet-seats, etc., are most desirable precautions.

For Boils and Carbuncles:

After boils have been opened Zonite has a wonderful germicidal and healing action. It kills the germs, allays the pain, reduces inflammation, softens and dissolves dead and decomposing tissue and permits rapid healing with the least likelihood of scars. Don't confuse boils with carbuncles. Boils have a single opening while carbuncles have numerous openings. Carbuncles are serious and require skilled surgical treatment. Where infection is local, pimples yield readily to a few applications of Zonite.

For Body Odors:

Objectionable body odors are usually due to a disease germ (bacterium foetidum) which infects the sweat glands of the arm pits, groins, feet and genital regions. A scientific body deodorant must not only check the odors, but remove the germs which cause them. Zonite is the only preparation which merely perfumes the parts or checks the odors is harmful and ineffectual. Zonite kills the germs and destroys by-some body odors promptly and effectively without leaving any lasting odor of its own.

For Removing Stains:

Zonite will remove fruit, vegetable and most ink stains from linen and cotton materials without injury to the fabric. It removes stains such as grass, mildew, fruit, chocolate, tea, coffee, etc., like magic.

Caution: Do not use Zonite on woolen, silk or dyed fabrics. See directions in booklet.

For the Feet:

There is always grave danger of serious infection from cutting corns, bunions, callouses, etc., too closely. Knives and razors should be sterilized and when blood is drawn pure Zonite should be applied instantly. Perspiring and swollen feet are relieved and deodorized if bathed in solution of Zonite.

Rids the Home of Deadly Poisons:

Zonite forever banishes the deadly skull and crossbones antiseptic from the home. There may have been some excuse for them in the past, but there is none now. Zonite will do more than any of them without any of their attendant dangers.

For Dandruff:

Authorities state that dandruff (seborrhea sicca) and many scalp irritations are due to bacterial infections of the scalp. Zonite has proved remarkably effective in the removal of these annoying conditions. It kills the microorganisms, dissolves and removes the scaly incrustations and exercises a stimulating, healing and tonic effect on the scalp tissues and hair follicles.

For Disinfecting Linen:

Bed linen used by persons afflicted with contagious diseases should be disinfected in a solution of Zonite. Table linen used by patients should also be disinfected.

For the Nursery:

By the discovery of Zonite another great advance has been made in the protection of baby's health and life. For years medical science has recognized the value of antiseptics in the nursery, but a non-poisonous antiseptic that might be used with safety on the delicate skin and membrane of infants and children. Zonite supplies this long felt want. It is invaluable for disinfecting nipples and nursing bottles, preventing contagious diseases, curing skin children's toys and clothing after contagious diseases, etc.

After Shaving:

Used as a lotion after shaving Zonite will disinfect razor cuts, soothe the skin and will prevent infection.

For Insect Bites:

As a relief from bee stings, mosquito bites, chiggers and many other insect bites Zonite is without equal. If promptly used, Zonite will lessen the pain, reduce swelling, irritation and inflammation. It also greatly lessens likelihood of infection.

To Disinfect Drinking Water:

Ten drops of Zonite added to a glass of water will destroy disease germs without rendering the water unfit to drink. It will therefore be of incalculable value during typhoid and other epidemics.

For Tooth and Hair Brushes:

It is highly important that tooth and hair brushes, particularly the former, be kept free from germs. Zonite is an efficient disinfectant for this purpose.

As a General Disinfectant and Deodorant:

A 14-ounce bottle of Zonite will make five gallons of a powerful disinfecting solution for general use about the home and to deodorize refrigerators, icechoxes, sinks, toilets, garbage cans, bed pans, etc.

Zonite is a clear, colorless liquid that does not stain and leaves no lasting odor of its own. It is not sold by all druggists, a corps of trained nurses has been stationed in the principal drug stores. They will be glad to give full particulars regarding Zonite, the greatest agency that has yet been given to mankind for the prevention of infection and disease and for the efficient maintenance of hygiene and sanitary conditions in the home.

The Zonite Booklet: Ask your druggist for a Zonite booklet. It is beautifully bound, profusely illustrated and contains thirty-two pages of valuable information. It is unquestionably the most educational and instructive treatise on the use of antiseptics in the home ever given to the public.

GALA NAVY DAY PROGRAM IS UNDER WAY

Today, the anniversary of the birth of Former President Theodore Roosevelt, is Navy Day.

In every section of the United States naval camps were thrown open to the public. All vessels in port held open house and flitting programs were carried out.

Greater Boston has thirteen vessels in port. It was a gala day from sunrise this morning until the sunset gun is fired late tonight. Band concerts, entertainments and dances have been arranged.

The Navy League of Massachusetts is sponsor for the program in this State.

Twenty-one Governors and the Mayors of nearly every city in the Union have entered into the spirit of the celebration.

(See Picture Page.)

Harding and Denby Honor Naval Heroes

Washington, Oct. 27.—What the American people owe to their navy not only as a bulwark of defense in war but a supporting arm of the nation's prestige and moral force among nations in the pursuits of peace was the Navy Day message from platform, radio mast and press today throughout the breadth of the land.

The navy paid its own tribute to former President Roosevelt in the designation of Admiral Hilliary P. Jones, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, to lay a wreath on the Roosevelt tomb at Oyster Bay, wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington Cemetery by Secretary Denby and high officials of the navy and ceremonies before the statue of John Paul Jones in Potomac Park.

Tonight President Harding, Secretary Denby and other government officials will be guests at a dinner tendered by the Navy League.

Places Palm Leaf on Unknown Grave in Paris

Paris, Oct. 27.—The leading feature of the Navy Day program here was the placing of a palm leaf on the tomb of the unknown soldier by the American naval attache accompanied by an American officer. Admiral Grassel, chief of the French naval staff, attended as the representative of the minister of marine.

London, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Westminster Abbey was today the scene of an impressive ceremony on the occasion of American Navy Day, when a wreath was placed upon the grave of the British unknown soldier. Ambassador Harvey presided.

Rome, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—American Navy Day was celebrated here today when a wreath, as a tribute from the American Navy League to the Italian unknown soldier, was placed on the tomb in the Victor Emmanuel monument.

BOSTON WOMEN PASTORS IN ATTACK ON HARVEY

RAP 'SILLY ANTICS' OF ENVOY

Declare Women Need No New Decalogue to Back Up Commandments

Boston women pastors refuse to take Ambassador Harvey seriously.

His remarks before the Authors' Club in London relative to the Ten Commandments and their restriction to men only, are termed "ridiculous," "absurd," the "peculiar wit of Mr. Harvey" and the "utterings of a session-seeker."

In brief, Colonel Harvey has put himself "in bad" with American women. In common with their indignant sisters throughout the country, Boston women pastors today added their remarks to the uncomplimentary ones made yesterday by local professional women and the heads of various women's organizations in the city.

NO WORD OF DEFENSE.

"Colonel Harvey cannot really be called an ambassador," protests Rev. Marion Murdock of 208 Winthrop road, Brookline," despite the fact that he enjoys that position. It is a political misfortune that a man of Mr. Harvey's calibre should be chosen for a position which places him in a way to represent the American people.

"Let us hope that we are not judged by the antics of Colonel Harvey. He appears to be having a glorious time making himself ridiculous in first one way and then another. He was at a loss for new material for his fun, apparently, when he bethough himself of the Ten Commandments.

"To say that the Decalogue was formulated when women enjoyed no importance is a peculiar basis upon which to state that the Commandments were not intended for them. There were many splendid characters among the women of the Old Testament.

"Mr. Harvey, by his remarks, appears to be silly and uninformed."

TUBS OVER TRIVIALITY.

Rev. Dr. Anita Pickett, noted woman minister, who is temporarily in Boston, declares that Colonel Harvey is attempting to make an issue out of the literal phrasing of the commandments.

"It seems almost unnecessary to comment upon the matter or to argue with Colonel Harvey, who seems to be making a fuss over trivialities," says Dr. Pickett. "In all literature the male pronoun is used. It was used in writing the Ten Commandments. It is used in many other much discussed writings, but no one ever thinks of raising any question as to which of the sexes is meant.

Rev. Dr. A. Gertrude Earle, of Methuen, considers Ambassador Harvey's opinions of too little importance to be considered seriously. "Women have surely abided by the Commandments for a long time," observes Dr. Earle. "Whether they were devised for them, or not. Seriously, I do not see where one could find foundation for the inference that the Divine Laws do not apply to both men and women."

Mere Man Suggests Some Commandments to Women

Editor Boston American:

I note that Mira Burr Edson, editor of "Childhood," takes a hand in the muss raised by Ambassador George Harvey's intimation that the Decalogue was framed for men only and would like to see one "constructed exclusively for women" and by them.

The following is suggested as a self-starter:

1—Thou shalt not grab the steering wheel when thy husband is easing the family flivver through a traffic jam.

2—Worship not the soothsayer and the palm reader; neither spend thy substance upon the strange gods of faddism, nor hearken to the coo of those cuckoo on culture.

3—Thou shalt not nag; neither leave needles in a chair after sewing, for an unsuspecting man sitteth thereon and great is the agony.

4—Remember the Sabbath day—once in a while.

5—Be a good daughter to your parents, but remember that being married is "something else again" and that "in-laws" keep lawyers in clover.

6—Thou shalt not give killing glances, neither at the neighboring housewife in anger, nor at simp'e men for purposes of mischief.

7—If you have a good home you're in luck; break up no other woman's.

8—Do not "pinch;" neither get "pinched."

9—If thou must slam thy friend, be on the level with it, nor smile sweetly and rip her up the back.

10—Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's car, for it may not be paid for; nor bob thy hair, for that is going out; nor think the other children are always picking on your kids.

11—(added feature)—Nor use thy husband's razor to sharpen lead pencils.

M. B.—A MERE MAN.

AVERAGE FARM WAGE IS $28.97 A MONTH

Washington, Oct. 27.—The average rate of wages of male farm labor for the entire United States, October 1 was $28.97 a month with board, according to the first of a regular series of reports from 1,300 counties to the Department of Agriculture.

The average rate for the year 1921 was $30.14. By the month without board, the average, October 1, was $41.58, compared with $43.32, the average for 1921.

APPEAL BRINGS QUICK AID TO FAMILY

Once more American readers have responded generously to aid an unfortunate family, in this case plunged into poverty by the sudden illness of the head of the house. They are Mr. and Mrs. George Carpentier of No. 3 Sibley court, Somerville.

Mrs. Carpentier was overcome with joy when she saw how the people of Greater Boston answered her appeal in the paper. The first to aid the family was Rev. Henry Grady, pastor of St. Benedict's Church, Somerville, who assured her that she would be provided with food until her husband is able to resume work. Others who have helped are Mrs. F. G. Armstrong of Boston; Roger Washburn, a Boston business man, gave money, and the St. Vincent De Paul Society will give weekly sums until the family is on its feet.

"I do not know how I will ever be able to thank those who have helped me in my trouble," said Mrs. Carpentier.

Booze in Baby Cart

Westfield, Oct. 27.—Police had made two unsuccessful liquor raids at the home of Frank Mastonak. On a third trip today moonshine was found in a baby carriage.

CHORUS GIRL TO TELL OF MURDER WITH HAMMER

Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Peggy Caffee, former chorus girl chum of the defendant, again today was the magnet which attracted many to the trial of Mrs. Clara Phillips, charged with murdering Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows with a hammer.

Mrs. Caffee, only known eye-witness to the slaying of Mrs. Meadows, was expected to repeat the story she told the Los Angeles County grand jury a church service and, on moving forward to shake hands with me, the Rev. Walter C. Carroll, pastor of said church, did cause her eyes, eye-lids and eye-brows to move, contract and wrinkle in such a manner as to convey to me the clear and distinct understanding that she was making the familiar motion of the eye, eye-lids and eye-brows commonly known as 'making eyes,' such an act on the part of Eva B. Turner, a married woman, and directed at me, a minister of the gospel, I charge to be immoral and un-Christian."

According to this story she and Mrs. Phillips rode with Mrs. Meadows in the latter's automob le to a where Mrs. Phillips, after accusing Mrs. Meadows of having accepted lonely spot in an outlying section, gifts from the defendant's husband, Armour L. Phillips, attacked and finally killed her with a hammer.

MINISTER SAYS WOMAN MADE EYES AT HIM

CHARGE REPEATED.

Charge No. 1 in the letter was a repetition of the first charge.

The clergyman, who is conducting his own case, said he regarded Mrs. Turner's alleged action as "part of propaganda to get me."

Q.—Was that Mrs. Turner a good Christian member of your church?

A.—Not when she made eyes at her pastor.

Q.—Did she not just cordially greet you with a smile? A.—She did more. She made eyes at me.

Q.—Was that part of the propaganda? A.—I construed it as an invitation to get me.

Mrs. Turner is in her early forties and the wife of Eugene Turner, who and her husband are leading members of the First Congregational membership in Rocket, where they are highly respected. She was not in court when the letter was read by Judge Burns and jury, but her husband was. It is understood he supplied the letter to the defence.

SKILLS OF PURSUIT.

The clergyman declared in further cross-examination that "dark and sinister forces of evil" starting through the Masonic fraternity, had attacked him when he was a Methodist pastor in North Ferrisburg, Vt., and had pursued him into the Congregational ministry and into Massachusetts and New York State.

He admitted that, when he was a pupil at Wilbraham Academy, he disappeared at one time, was brought home by his sister and that his mother said she feared he was not mentally responsible.

FIND MAINE MAN CULBBED TO DEATH

Livermore Falls, Me., Oct. 27.—A posse of a hundred men searched the woods today for the person who is believed to have clubbed to death Arthur Allen of Riley. Allen's body was found behind a rock near a sandpit fifty feet from a highway.

Electrical Wizard Would Demolish Steam Engines

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 27.—"We can scrap every steam engine in the State and still have an enormous surplus of unused waterpower to attract new industries."

"We can send prosperity into New York city on a wire.

"The coal era is near its end. We must and can turn back a billion tons of precious coal to its perilously depleted sources."

So declared Dr. Charles R. Steinmetz, electrical genius, today, delivering a startling message on "Electrification," outlining the program of marvels which he proposes to work for if elected State engineer on the new labor party ticket.

REFUSES RACE TO FORD OR MAYFLOWER

one equally frank from Arthur Zwicker, owner of the Bluenose:

"The race between the Bluenose and the Mayflower is off. It will continue to be off, unless we can race in Canadian waters. Capt. Walters is going home. If the Mayflower wants a race she'll have to wait until the committee decides on the protest of the American committee. In a month from now, in Canadian waters, maybe."

He sent a wire to that effect to the Mayflower Associates of Boston.

Committee Delays Awarding Trophy

Gloucester, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press).—Award of the International Race Championship Trophy was delayed today, when the sailing committee in charge of the races voted to refer to the International Committee protests against Bluenose, apparent winner of the series, after yesterday's victory.

H. H. Silver, chairman of the trustees of the cup, said the trophy would not be handed over until a certificate of award had been signed by the International Committee.

It was learned that two of the American members of the International committee, Captain Charles H. Harty and Benjamin A. Smith, had resigned because of illness. Chairman W. W. Lufkin, collector of the port of Boston, suggested to the American race committee which nominated him that he also should resign, saying he thought a new deal might clarify the situation. The American race committee decided this was not desirable and Mr. Lufkin called a meeting of the international committee for 3 p. m.

In place of the two members who resigned the American race committee recommended Governor Cox and Capt. J. A. MacKinnon and Captain John H. Dohlman, both of Gloucester. The other members of the committee are F. W. Baldwin of Haddock, N. S., and J. J. Kinley of Lunenburg, N. S.

GROUNDS OF PROTEST.

The sailing committee in referring a protest said that it felt the matters in protest were outside the sailing committee's authority.

It developed also that protest was made that the Bluenose shifted ballast during the races. On this point it was decided the matter lay outside the question of "sailing regulations."

As to the failure of the Bluenose to carry an observer it was held that the official observers were appointees of the International Committee.

Representatives of the Bluenose owners here today sent J. Henry Hunt of Boston, presiding of the Mayflower Associates, a telegram saying that the controversy over the cup made it necessary to call off the proposed race here between the Mayflower and the Bluenose.

The telegram added, however, that the owners were willing to have the Bluenose meet the Mayflower at any time within a month in Nova Scotian waters.

Superfluous Hair, Roots And All, Quickly Go!

Marvelous Phelactine Method

For the first time in a hundred cases a genuinely effective method of removing unsightly hairy growths has been discovered. The new Phelactine process does not merely take off the hair-ends it actually removes the roots! It does this quickly and harmlessly. It does not sear, sting, irritate, discolor or electrize. Phelactine, Procedure prepared by Charbonneau Supply Co., Chicago, is sold everywhere. Simply by sprinkling on a stick of it from your druggist, follow the simple instructions and have the satisfaction of seeing the roots themselves removed at last.

OSSIPEE ROAD BANS POLES FOR LIGHTS

"No poles wanted on Ossipee Road!"

This is not a Ku Klux warning. The resident of Ossipee road, in Somerville, simply do not agree with the city fathers, who recently said, "Let us have light." The proposal was to erect a number of electric light poles on Ossipee road from Mason street to Packard avenue.

Residents of the road appeared before the Board of Aldermen today objecting to the proposed erection of the poles.

"It would spoil the looks of the road," they said.

"This is the first time I've ever heard of citizens objecting to light," commented Alderman Burns, chairman of the committee on electric lights. "There are plenty of other sections of Somerville who will be glad to get additional light, if you folks can't see the light."

POLISH CAVALRYMEN ROUT TERRORIZERS

Warsaw, Oct. 27.—A Polish cavalry detachment sent against the bands of Ukrainian terrorizers who had destroyed crops and torn up railroads in protest against Polish control of Eastern Galicia drove them back into the Ukraine, but failed to disperse them.

The troopers lost their commander, Captain Kownacki, who was captured by the marauders. The robbing and pillaging was carried on by the invaders as far as Lemberg.

Wife Asks Divorce

EDGAR H. BRISTOL

BRISTOL BRINGS REPORTER TO DIVORCE TRIAL

The nose for news may sometimes be an asset to a litigant in court, as well as to a newspaper reporter.

So, at least, reasoned Edgar K. Bristol, millionaire bank director and newspaper owner of Foxboro who is being sued by his wife for divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

BRINGS REPORTER.

When Bristol was brought into court to answer the charges, he brought with him a reporter from his own newspaper.

This reporter walked over to David J. Maloney, attorney for Mrs. Bristol, and sought to interview him relative to the case. Were the interview forthcoming, he said, he was under orders to write it up for Bristol's newspaper just as he would any divorce suit.

Maloney refused to talk, fearing to give Bristol an outline of his wife's case before it went to trial.

MRS. BRISTOL ILL.

Mrs. Bristol is now ill in the Commonwealth Avenue Hospital. Up until three years ago, she says, all went well in the family. Then her husband had an attack of the "flu." Since that time, according to her claim, she has been mistreated, so that she went to a sanitarium in Winsted, Conn.

In Foxboro, it is hinted that the moving cause for the estrangement lies in Bristol's Utopian ideas. Bristol was the man who recently started the "conscience jitney," operating auto busses about the town with the understanding that passengers "pay what they thought was right."

The court ordered Bristol to pay $500 to his wife. Trial of the case, which will be contested by Bristol, will come in December.

WOMAN'S BAND TO HEAD GASTON PARADE

A women's band will head a parade of women workers and organizations supporting the candidacy of Colonel William A. Gaston for United States Senatorship from Copley square to the Arena where there will be a dance next Wednesday night. Colonel Gaston will speak.

BOSTON POLLS WILL OPEN FROM 6 TO 4

Polls in Boston will be open from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m. on election day, November 7. This announcement was made by the Board of Election Commissioners because of confusion on primary day over the change in hours.

HUB-NEW YORK BOAT SUSPENDS NEXT WEEK

VANDALS CUT WIRES, TRAINS IN DANGER

LANDS AIRPLANE ON MOVING WARSHIP

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 27.—For the first time in history an airplane has landed successfully on the deck of a moving American battleship, it was announced here today by naval officers. The feat was performed by Lieutenant Commander Godfrey Chevalier, flying a two-seated plane, landed on the U. S. S. Langley while the vessel was running at 20 knots an hour off the Virginia capes.

LEAVES PRISON, TAKEN ON HUB WARRANT

Philadelphia, Oct. 27. — Frank Thompson, thirty-seven years old also known as Arthur W. Roach, a college graduate, and a man of evidently good birth, was arrested today as he left the Eastern State Penitentiary, filled with ideas of reform.

He will be sent to Boston for trial on a charge similar to that for which he has just completed a sentence here—that of obtaining Liberty bonds under false pretenses.

He smiled, according to police, was to call up a broker, giving the name of a customer, and ask if the broker had in stock a $1,000 bond of a certain series. If the broker said he had Thompson would say "All right, I'll send a man for one right away." Then he would go around with a fake check and get the bond.

Thompson says he was graduated from a College in an university, and moved in good society in Boston. His face left when he found a detective waiting with a Boston warrant.

"I had to all duped out to go straight and make good," he said.

LAWSON PUNCH GLASSES 19 FOR $5

Apparently those who attended the second day of the auction at "Tom" Lawson's Dreamwold estate today put business before pleasure. When appurtenances to the dining room were put on the block, those of a useful nature found plenty of bidders while the objects of an artistic character did not go very fast.

Nothing brought more than $21. The usual number of professional buyers were on hand in addition to the bargain seekers.

Among the articles sold were: 24 piece medallion dinner set, $15; 2 Japanese bowls, $10 each; 19 punch glasses, $5; 2 glass pitchers, $4, 2 china bowls, $1.50; English chop dish, $5; salad bowl, $4; pair of crystal celery trays, $14.50 each; 4 large china coffee cups, $5; 2 copper prize cups, $5.50, 12 cut glass goblets, $10.50; Tiffany glass cordial set, $9; 2 bronze Roman lamps, $24.50; bronze group of pigs, by Hyatt, $10; 2 bronze candle sticks $17; Mexican basket, $7.50; bronze elephant doorstop, $14.

MUSSOLINI AND FACTA TO MEET KING IN ROME

Rome Oct 27 (By the Associated Press)—Benito Mussolini leader of the Fascisti, is expected to arrive in Rome today for discussions between himself and Premier Facta, who was to confer with the king this morning.

This action again caused rumors that the formation of another Fascisti cabinet, with the participation of the Fascisti, is a possibility.

Benito Mussolini

All speculations concerning the solution of the crisis agree that it will result in the advent to power of the Fascisti, either alone, or with Giolitti, Orlando or Salandra in case the Facta Cabinet possibility mentioned is dissipated.

King Victor Emmanuel will arrive in Rome tonight. It has expressed a desire to consult with Signors Tittoni and De Nicola, the presidents, respectively, of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, with Benito Mussolini, the leader of the Fascisti, and with Luigi Federzoni, leader of the Nationalist party.

Former Premier Giolitti also will be in Rome tomorrow.

Norfolk Hunt Club Mecca of Society Folk

MISS MARY HUNNEWELL ON HER FAVORITE HUNTER.

By BETTY ALDEN.

THESE crisp Fall mornings find an enthusiastic crowd of sportsmen and women riding over the country-side around the Norfolk Hunt Club.

The clubhouse itself is ideally located on a high hill on the outskirts of Medfield, commanding a fine view of the surrounding country side. Henry G. Vaughan, whose country place at Sherborn is known as "Morgenster," is the M. F. H.

They come from far and wide, the riders who follow the hunt. Many of them keep their horses at the club, and motor there from their country homes in Norwood, Dedham, Dover and Wellesley.

Among the most enthusiastic followers of the hounds at the Norfolk Hunt are the various members of the Ames clan, who are now, I hear, gathered at their respective country homes at North Easton for the Fall. Miss Olivia Ames, daughter of the Oliver Ameses, is known widely for her skill in horsemanship, and she is one of the keenest riders there. What with the Oliver Ameses, the Oakes Ameses, the Winthrop Ameses, and Mrs. William Ames, North Easton seems to be plentifully supplied with members of that distinguished family.

AMONG the other families who are frequently seen about the Norfolk Hunt are the Charles F. Lymans, whose country place is at Dover; the Walter Hunnewells; the Adnah Neyharts, whose two daughters, the Misses Dorothy and Edith Neyhart, are skilled equestriennes, and the Freeman Allens.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE R. ARAUSIS have been spending a few days in New York at the Hotel Belmont.

FRIENDS of the James Cummings Harrs will be interested to learn that they are to spend the Winter in New York at the Hotel Plaza. The Harrs—he is of the Harvard '90 class—have been sojourning for a while in Atlantic City at the Hotel Brighton. Only recently Mrs. Harr underwent an operation, from which she is said to have recovered completely.

GOWNED in an old-fashioned frock of pale yellow chiffon and white lace, Miss Margaret Collens made her debut at a tea dance given yesterday afternoon at the Country Club.

The affair was given for her by her mother, Mrs. Charles Colleas (Margaret Winsor), who received with the young bud as did also her grandmother, Mrs. Alfred Winsor of Walnut street. A group of eighteen of Miss Collens's young friends—mostly classmates of hers at the Winsor School, served as pourers for the occasion.

MRS. EDMUND L. BAYLIES, who has a host of connections here, was of the society contingent which returned to this country on board the Majestic. A fellow-passenger of Mrs. Baylies was Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater, who is to be on Fifth Avenue, New York, for the Winter.

I HEAR that the former Clarissa Curtis, daughter of the Tom Pelham Curtises of Boston, and now Princess Michael Cantacuzene-Speranskiy, Jr., together with Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, is arranging an afternoon bridge party at the Plaza on November 23 for the fund to help the Russian refugees.

Since her marriage to the youthful prince a year ago last June, Boston has not seen a great deal of the one-time Clarissa Curtis, whose blonde beauty was noted wherever she went. The ceremonial, solemnized at the quaint little church in Sabani, is still vividly recalled by those of Boston's smart coterie who attended it.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE U. CROCKER, whose home was formerly at No. 378 Marlboro street, have taken a house on West Cedar street for the Winter.

ANOTHER CHANGE of residence in the ranks of the social "who's who," is that of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoar (Dorothy Brown), who are at No. 38 West Cedar street. The Hoars, until recently, made their home on Charles River square, but they have sold their house there.

ANNOYS GIRL IN LUNCHROOM; FINED $10

Questing earnestly for trouble, Waldo J. Payson entered the lunch room at No. 89 Warren street, Roxbury, today and profanely demanded food.

There were fifteen patrons in the place, and he proceeded to make himself objectionable to them all. He concentrated his billingsgate finally on Mrs. Grace Fidell, of Compton street in the South End, the cashier of the place. Mrs. Fidell is a comely young woman of twenty-six years. She turned down and wept under the stress of insult and invective, and told the patrons of the place that the man had been annoying her for months, following her from place to place. She said he had been responsible in his systematic persecution, for her having lost several positions.

When Payson, who lives in Brockton, persisted in his insults, she became hysterical, and at this point Patrolman Hinchey of the Dudley street station, who was passing by, entered the place.

He ordered Payson to behave. Payson sneered.

"You can't do anything to me. All you cop or me is disorderly conduct."

Whereupon he ripped off his coat, and, according to Hinchey, took a wallop at him. After a struggle the policeman succeeded in placing Payson under arrest.

He was later arraigned in Roxbury Court. Judge Hayden fined him $5 for being profane, and $5 for being drunk.

HAMMILL AGREES TO LEAVE NEW YORK

Frederick Hammill, legless pedler, of Waltham, promised to leave New York permanently and sentence was suspended by Magistrate Rytenberg there. Hammill was arrested Saturday on Sixth avenue by Detective Snydecker, who testified he saw seventy-five persons give money to Hammill. Hammill, the police say, had an automobile parked nearby. Probation officers testified that Hammill once had a modest fortune which he lost on a ranch venture. He is said to have a home at present at Waltham, Mass.

G. O. P. HAS EXPENDED $421,444 ON CAMPAIGN

Chicago, Oct. 27 (By the Associated Press) The Republican national committee has raised $423,866 96 for the present campaign and up to the close of business Wednesday night had spent $421,444, leaving $522 96 on hand, treasurer Fred W. Upham announced today. R. B. Mellon of Pittsburgh, brother of the secretary of the treasury, was the largest individual contributor, giving $25,000.

BEADED BLOUSES

YOU may vote or beat your brother at golf, but if you're a woman, you can't deny that hand-work has a fascination for you. Perhaps it's the tradition of gentility that comes to us from the fashions of our grandmother. Or, as in these beautifully hand-beaded blouses, perhaps it's the beauty that survives in a craft that is generations old. (For hand-beading may be found in relics from every corner of the globe—we're thinking now of a beaded tapestry fire-screen from a Russian palace.)

Most of us can't afford hand-made garments as a rule. But see what Filene merchandising has done for you. In the women's blouse shop you will find blouses made by hand, and beaded by hand (which adds to their practical value, because every bead is fastened firmly on). $8.75 and $10.50.

BOYS CONFESS ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN

Bolton, Conn., Oct. 27.—Raymond Jewett and Jafferson Lynch, each thirteen years old, and both of Vernon, have admitted an attempt to wreck train number 55 at Bolton Notch. They placed four inch timbers and rocks on the track at one spot, a tie and two spikes at another place and drove a chisel between switch connections. Then they greased each track for 500 feet with oil and placed a rock and a pick used in quarrying on the track. The obstructions were found in time to prevent a wreck.

MEXICO CLOSES CONSULATE IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 27.—The Mexican consulate here was closed today on receipt of an order from the Mexican Charge d'Affaires at Washington, quoting instructions from the Mexican government to close all consulates in the United States, as a protest against the action of the New York Supreme Court which allowed a writ of attachment against Mexican government funds on deposit here, in connection with an action for $1,250,000 damages against the Mexican government by the Oliver American Trading Company.

Consul General Musquiz said charge d'Affaires Pellez had ... dared the New York courts had violated immunities of international law under which consulates the world over are protected against such action even in time of war. The order said the office would remain closed until the case is settled.

The consulate here has been ... recent months. More than 500 consular invoices for goods consigned to Mexico are handled daily. New York exporters doing business with Mexico will be hampered greatly.

GEM THIEVES GET $500 IN LOOT

Providence, Oct. 27.—Working in the glare of a street light, thieves today cut a hole six by twenty-four inches in the plate glass display window of the Weybosset Diamond Store, No. 198 Weybosset street, and stole diamond rings and watches valued more than $500.

The store is in the heart of the downtown business section, three blocks from police headquarters and on a street that is well traveled. After cutting the hole, the robbers are believed to have used some sort of a hook or rake as it would have been impossible to reach inside and seize the loot.

Police could find no finger prints, giving rise to the theory the burglars were experts and were gloves.

APPEAL SENTENCES FOR LOBSTER THEFTS

A specialized form of larceny was divulged today when three men were sentenced to six months each in the House of Correction in East Boston court. The men, charged with wholesale lobster thefts from dealers, are George C. Phillips and William H. Fullerton of East Boston and Henry M. Mason of Beachmont. According to the testimony at the hearing, the men would row up to various Boston piers and get away with the lobster shipments. They appealed and were held in bail of $500 each.

COAST TRAFFIC BEST IN PANAMA RECORD

Washington, Oct. 27.—A new record for interoceanic traffic through the Panama Canal was established in September, according to official report, which shows that during the month 63 vessels passed through the canal between Atlantic and Pacific ports. Of this number 34 vessels were westbound, while 29 were eastbound. The ships, carrying 355,255 tons of cargo, paid tolls amounting to $396,385 compared with tolls of $219,362 paid by forty intercoastal ships which carried 177,283 tons through the canal in September, 1921.

ALLIES ABLE TO PAY U. S. DEBT, SAYS GARY

New York, Oct. 27.—Normal conditions in the United States have not yet been fully restored and are not likely to be unless extraordinary efforts are made, declared Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation and president of the American Iron and Steel Institute at the annual meeting of that body today.

The country is at present suffering from the high cost of living, he declared, and profiteering and labor disputes, "temporary relapses of the war fever," have further complicated the return to normalcy.

FEARS LABOR SHORTAGE.

Judge Gary opposed the cancellation of the foreign debts owed to this country, lauded President Harding for the conduct of his administration, said that the steel industry is in a healthy condition but expressed concern over the growing labor shortage.

He voiced the hope that a conference would be called in Washington for the frank discussion of all unsettled financial, commercial and industrial questions in which the people are interested.

Legislation which has been enacted to curb profiteering and high prices, Judge Gary declares, has not always succeeded, and added:

"There are already too many man made laws and, perhaps, too many attempts to apply them which are calculated to interrupt and hinder progress and industrial prosperity.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND.

"Any statute that unnecessarily interferes with the natural law of supply and demand works incalculable damage to economic progress and prosperity. The fault, in a measure, may be laid at our own doors. If so, then let us, to the best of our ability, overcome our faults and consistently adopt and practice reasonable and constructive policies."

Judge Gary declared the foreign debts were "voluntarily, freely and fairly contracted."

"If, or all these debts or any part of them without full payment would be forgetfulness of charity and that is never agreeable to the donor and as a rule equally disagreeable to a self-respecting person or nation," he declared.

"Americans generally would not be content with governmental action which relieved from debt the citizens of a foreign nation by increasing the burdens of the former."

Judge Gary said that debtor nations can and are willing to repay their obligations but cannot do so at present because of unsettled conditions.

Cheer Leader

HELEN DIMITROFF

Miss Dimitroff who is to help make welcome to Admiral Sims at tonight's Arena, a success.

6,000 TO GREET SIMS TONIGHT IN ARENA

Six thousand bands, banners and flags will fly with the wind.

Six thousand pairs of feet will march up Huntington avenue to the martial strains of the U. S. Marine Band. Traffic will be tied up.

Gay and appropriate costumes will be in evidence, crisp and skirling bonnets of the maid at arms, cowls in sailor middies and skirts factories in readi-made process, in cap and gown. And all will be headed for the same place—to greet Rear Admiral William S. Sims who will be the guest of honor at the special Fall convocation of Boston University to be held in the Arena tonight at 8 o'clock.

A guard of honor composed of 81 ex-students who served during the War Department will escort the Rear Admiral to the Arena where he will arrive at 7:30.

President Lemuel H. Murlin of Boston University is to give the address of welcome. It is expected that ex-Governor Calvin Coolidge, who is a member of the board of trustees of the university, Rear Admiral Henry Mayo, Navy Yard commandant, Admiral Wilson Brown, Navy Yard executive officer, Lieutenant Commander Ralph Earle and other officers of the Navy will be present.

Tradition Paid British Debt to U. S., Says Lloyd George

London, Oct. 27.—"No one did as much for Anglo-American relations as George Whitefield and John Wesley," declared Lloyd George in a speech at the anniversary of Whitefield's tabernacle in London. "America responds to practically the same ideals as England, as is shown in the attitude which America adopted recently towards the Near Eastern question.

"I do not know the exact figures of our debt to America, but I am told that it is a thousand million odd at the present moment. It is nothing to the debt that America owes us. Write on the balance sheet: debtor a thousand and forty millions, creditor, John Wesley and George Whitefield.

"Whitefield and Wesley brought America into the war. The result of their teaching and preaching moved America to come to our aid. And I will tell you one thing more: they are going to do before they are done. Whitefield and Wesley are going to take America by the hand and lead her through the golden portals of the League of Nations."

CLERGYMAN SEES POLITICAL GRAFT IN FILM CENSOR

EX-KAISER AND BRIDE TO "HOLD THEIR OWN"

Berlin, Oct. 27.—"What's yours, is yours; what's mine, is mine," is the feature of the marriage contract between the former German Kaiser and his betrothed, Princess Hermine of Reuss, International News Service is able to state positively today. The contract will be signed on the day of the nuptials early next month.

"Sylpho-Nathol kills germs, but doesn't hurt my skin"

"My skin is sensitive and chaps so easily! That is why I had never liked disinfectants in scrubbing around the house. I felt positive that anything strong enough to kill germs would ruin my hands.

"But that was before I heard of Sylpho-Nathol. Mary Adams told me about it. She had used it for a long time. Her hands are soft and pink and pretty.

"I phoned the grocer. He said that he sold lots of it. And, following the simple directions on the bottle, I put a tablespoonful in a pail of warm water. The mixture I wrung out the mop in that clean-smelling, pearly gray solution. I knew I had found the right thing.

"I use Sylpho-Nathol every day—in all the scrub water, in the sink pipe, in the cellar, in the garbage pail. Once or twice a week I use it around the toilet bowl, too, and as a flush for the closet bowl. I don't know what I'd do without it—it makes everything so sweet and clean and healthy smelling. And, best of all, it hasn't hurt my hands the tiniest bit—they're just as soft as Mary's."

Sylpho-Nathol is so safe—so effective, so easy to use, so economical. Sylpho-Nathol is 4½ times stronger than Carbolic Acid—yet it is as safe to have in the house as a cake of soap.

The unseen disease germs which live and thrive in even ordinary house dust don't linger where Sylpho-Nathol is used.

The annoying smells which persist in such places as closet bowls, damp cellars and garbage receptacles of the most scrupulously kept homes give place instantly to its faint, clean, friendly odor.

Sylpho-Nathol comes in 25c, 35c, 65c and $1.25 bottles. The complete, easy-to-follow directions are on the bottle.

Most good grocers and druggists have it. If yours hasn't, he can get it easily. Just ask for it by name—"Sylpho-Nathol."

LESS MEAT IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Jad Salts if your Back hurts

No man or woman who eats too much meat can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which irritates the kidneys; they become over-worked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we feel sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleepiness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

Drink plenty of water; you can't drink too much; also get from your pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys may get fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

RED PEPPER HEAT STOPS BACKACHE

Penetrating Warmth of Rowles Red Pepper Rub Is Quickest Relief Known

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can fairly fan you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a Jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

PROTEST OF FANS GROWS

Election Day Now Near Will Cut Short Chance to Win Prize for Letter

Movie censorship in Massachusetts would devolve into political graft and "the powers that be" would sway the censor to suit their own ends. This is the belief of the Rev. A. G. Warner of the Highland Baptist Church of Fitchburg.

"The one thing I am afraid of is that the one who would be appointed as chief censor could be reached by the powers that be," says Dr. Warner.

This argument against censorship has already been advanced by others but Mr. Warner is the first clergyman to take up the cudgels on this particular phase of the question.

Election Day is coming closer. The Boston American's censorship contest is attracting wide attention. Have you sent in your proposal yet? Get in line for some of the prize money. The best letter on the subject wins $200. Other prizes are offered. $5 to $100 is paid for every letter printed. Act now. Here are some letters:

TRUST THE MASSES.

Editor Boston American:

With reference to the projected addition of a State Board of Censorship for motion pictures in Boston—since it is compulsory at the present time for pictures to comply with certain laws, morally and otherwise, before they can be shown on the screen, thereby having to pass one censorship board, it hardly seems necessary or decent to be contemplating the supplement of another one likely to entail higher tax rates for the people at a time when there are so many real opportunities to expend money worthily for the betterment of conditions.

Picture houses are certainly rather innocent subjects for such a proposed bevy of censors, and since the moral laws, and such others as have been effective are adhered to, there appears to be nothing else left to keep another board busy.

This being so, it would undoubtedly be a case of "personal" censorship, which would in all probability have a disastrous effect on the entire moving picture profession for with so many to condemn and advise, it is rather beyond the imagination to assume that there would be any enjoyment left in the "movies."

Then again were such a censorship campaign of this sort once started, there is a dire possibility of its having a contagious influence upon other lines as well and with each individual censor setting forth his own code of ethics, what was thought to be necessary in the case of motion picture houses might soon be felt essential in other lines as well until in a comparatively short time we might likewise be closely restricted with regard to certain foods, types of clothing or any of the other hundred and one possibilities of a censor-crazed minority, who are inclined to see apparent cause for alarm (whether from mercenary or other selfish motives), at the slightest provocation.

Let us trust to the intelligence of the masses, that the cranped and autocratic spirit of these petty narrow minds will be overruled.

CECILIA HAGUE

No. 17 Willow park,
Wollaston, Mass.

"THE PEOPLE KNOW."

Editor Boston American:

Are not the thousands that attend the movies gifted with intelligence?

Would they be present in such large numbers if pictures really needed censoring?

If the pictures shown in Boston are a sample of what are shown in other large towns and cities, and are patronized by people who know the differences between right and wrong, then there must be something good and wholesome in pictures.

Why should a few be asked to say to the many what picture they should see and what picture they should not see?

A picture that is not clean morally will not get the endorsement of the greater portion of our people. Even the "rougher element," nine cases out of ten, prefer pictures that lift them above their every-day mode of living.

The producers, directors and managers are continually striving to improve the quality of the pictures, which we can see for ourselves has been improving steadily and will continue until they will arrive, approximately, perfect.

I am sure the voters at the coming election will voice their objection to the State telling them they must do this or that they cannot do that, for the people still have reasoning powers, are endowed with the sense of right and wrong and can be relied upon to choose the best at all times.

Censor the movies? Did censoring work, for instance, at the "Boston Tea Party?" People know then, as now, what was good for them.

DANIEL A. LAMONT,

State Censorship Is Not Needed, Says Lynn Woman

Miss Zonia Agnes Tabor of No. 825A Western avenue, Lynn, a member of the Lynn City Official Theatrical Censorship Board, which is made up of fifteen members she being the youngest theatre censor in the State, today opposed State censorship of motion pictures. Her statement follows:

Miss Tabor

"It has been my experience during the past ten months as a censor in the city of Lynn that it takes all the time fifteen censors can give to attend to their work, let alone one man supervising the work.

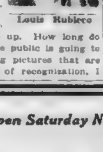
"In Lynn we have probably the best conducted theatres in the State. During the ten months I have had the pleasure of making only one complaint in Lynn theatres and this complaint was against vaudeville and not against motion pictures. State censorship of motion pictures is wrong. It takes the personal liberty and rights away from the people."

FILM CENSOR AROUSES IRE OF CITIZENS

Bill Hart in a picture, but, no shooting; Rudolph Valentino but no loving kisses; Freckles Barry but no "cutting up," and Dustin Farnum with no flatfights. These are a few things the movie fan will have to go without, if the censorship bill should be accepted. For such scenes might "corrupt the morals of youth." Is it any wonder that the generation of today are raising their voices in loud protest?

Read what more Bay Staters have to say:

Louis Rubicco, No. 86 Waverley street, Brighton:



Louis Rubicco

"I wonder if there are not some more important matters to take up the attention of these reformers, than censoring the movies? Their method is about as sensible as going into boot stores and tracking pieces out of books, after the publishers have gone to great expense to have the books made up. How long do they suppose the public is going to submit to seeing pictures that are all slashed out of recognition. I suppose Bill Hart will have to put his gun in moth-balls and shake his finger at his enemy, when occasion arises.

Miss Beatrice Carro of Dorchester:

Beatrice Carro.

"Imagine a western serial with no fights in it or a love story with no kissing! What is the use of showing the pictures at all if they are not going to be true to life. It would be hard to tell the hero from the villain if the advocates of censorship had their way. How many people would be interested in the pictures then?"

Louis Muchnick, No. 11 Drumond street, Dorchester:

"I wonder how this agitation for censorship would last if the censors and their assistants were to serve without pay? I save the youth of the land. It is a question as to how much is some of the reformers are asking for their own selfish benefit. For the benefit of some friends. It would be interesting to know just what would be censored, if this bill is passed. As yet, we know nothing of the intentions of the man who probably knows already that he is slated for the job of Censor. But he will not get the job for nothing. Following the meeting in Jordan Hall this evening, when 700 new members will be admitted, the more than 1,000 surgeons who have been attending the convention in Boston and the clinics in various soap talk will leave for their homes

SHOULD HAVE A DOCTOR THUMP YOU YEARLY

Everybody, well or ill, should have a complete physical examination every year.

This is the advice of Dr. D. A. Craig, Chicago surgeon, who is in Boston today to attend the convention of the American College of Surgeons.

"The medical profession, as a whole, cannot and does not stand behind a vested mystery, but must be ready and willing to cooperate with the government in the great movement for better health," said Dr. Craig. "An annual physical examination is one of the most important things that should be taught the public by the medical fraternity.

"The influence of American medical and surgical practice is rapidly displacing French and German influence in South America, according to Dr. Guillermo Munnich of Valparaiso, Chile.

"American surgery, during the past few years, has progressed far more than has surgery in any other country. Only five or six years ago there was practically no American influence in South America. Our surgeons went to France or Germany to study.

"Now due to the visits of American surgeons and Spanish editions of American medical periodicals, the American opinion is rapidly displacing that of France and Germany."

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, podalax drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

No—try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 73, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Cherman of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted sixteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or bad stomach. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that everyone in the family can use when a medicine is needed?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly prove a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for a adequate test, shall be sent to you if you will Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

SCIENCE CONQUERS the GREAT POX

NO part of education is more important than how to keep well. Paul H. DeKruif, Ph.D. has resigned from Rockefeller Institute to devote his energies to making clear to the public what is unsound among medical claims. His contributions to Hearst's International are of permanent value, not only to the medical profession but to every home. In the new November number Dr. De Kruif speaks very frankly about Syphilis, a devastating disease which—not withstanding its certain cure, is widely exploited by drug mongers.

A New Novel by H. G. Wells

A SIMPLE Englishman, driving his little automobile in the outskirts of London, runs off the road and into the Seventh Dimension. Vivid with Mr. Wells's imagination about the Future—no problem is too deep for him to settle. Also a fascinating and entertaining adventure in the romance of science. This novel by the most important thinker alive today starts in Hearst's International for November.

Poincaré Menaces Europe!

ONLY when all the documents of the Foreign Offices are open to historians, as those of Petrograd and Berlin are already, writes Jean Longuet in Hearst's International for November, can we know the full responsibility Poincare had for the breaking out of war. FITZ PUTS BIG LIGHT RATE UP TO G. O. P.

Charges that the present Republican administration have allowed the Edison Electric Illuminating Company to waste $3,000,000 of consumers' money without any support to maintain the highest electric rates in the country, were made by John F. Fitzgerald, Democratic candidate for Governor.

Fitzgerald spoke at rallies in Winchester, Arlington, Everett, Malden, Somerville and Medford.

He further declared that the Coxadministration allowed the Cambridge Electric Light Company to increase its rates while it was paying an annual dividend of 20 per cent.

IN H. C. L. PLOT.

"The same leaders were engaged in a secret conference to-day," the Commissioner of Secretaries of Life, he said. "When the chairman of the commission exposed the fact that Massachusetts is paying the highest prices for meats in the country he was to be taught 'not to snitch,' and when he warned the public to fight against extortion, use of coal profiteers he author is over the coal situation was snatched away from him.

"The lobbyists of the gas and electric lighting interests presented a bill which, if it had been enacted, would have enabled them to issue $37,000,000 of new stock, at the expense of the public, and a committee of the Legislature, three days after the first hearing, reported the bill favorably without a single change in it.

BALKED PHONE PROBE.

"These same leaders refused to permit an investigation of telephone rates and service. Governor Cox voted against the investigation when he was a member of the House and it was repeatedly defeated when he was the Speaker.

"Although it is a commonly known fact and has been repeatedly stated by the Department of Public Utilities that the profits on gas and electric light corporations pay for hundreds a huge sums for 'management' and purchases of supplies for one corporation, the Legislature has refused to pass any law to put a stop to that practice.

"These practices have become so notorious that one of the gas companies borrowed money on a note and then loaned the money to be used for more than a year by a bank which controls it. The facts in that case were given to the Legislature, but nothing was done to correct the injustice.

"It is because Governor Cox fears to face facts of that nature that he refuses to discuss the issues of the campaign from the same platform with me."

Mrs. Ada Parkhurst, who charges [illegible] her aged mother has had improper relations with her husband, [illegible] Framingham in the [illegible] house with the man from [illegible] seeking a divorce.

The divorce, which will be heard [illegible] Judge Fox, is unconnected by the [illegible] band, but is being fought by the [illegible] of Mrs. Taylor and [illegible] Glynn.

MOTHER IN ANGUISH.

Mrs. Taylor told a reporter of the Boston American today, that twenty years and she divorced her first husband [illegible] married Taylor. She [illegible] married the second time [illegible] years and has four children by her first marriage.

"My children have been my first consideration throughout my life and I have made constant sacrifices for them," she said tearfully. "I bore the unhappiness caused by my first husband rather than break up our home until my children were grown. I have been with my daughter Ida, who is accusing me in this shocking way, whenever she was in need of help.

"This years ago when her last baby was born, I cared for her and the baby for months. It breaks my heart that she should have turned against me. I am an old woman. It is almost more than I can bear."

AUTOS KILL TWO IN SAME FAMILY

RODMAN ASKS CITIZENS TO URGE 100 P. C. NAVY

Des Moines, Oct. 27.—The United States "owes its independence and commanding position in the world's affairs largely to the achievements of its navy," Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, who commanded the American battleship force with the British grand fleet in the World War declared in a "Navy Day" address here today.

He urged his hearers, "as patriotic citizens," to instruct their Congressmen "to give us a 100 per cent. navy, so that it will be ready to act instantly and your money will not be wasted."

SUITOR OF GIRL ATTACKS HER FATHER

Because Michael Bibas of No. 5 Mount Vernon place, Charlestown, objected to the attentions paid by a fourteen year-old daughter, Stella, by Alexander Tolewick, of No. 18 Hudson street, South End, Tolewick attacked the father today with a knife.

The encounter took place at the Bibas home, after the father had ordered Tolewick to leave the place. Tolewick, according to the police, drew a knife and slashed Bibas' face.

He then ran up the street. Patrolman William J. Bonner, hearing the cries of Bibas and seeing the man running, gave chase. Tolewick is alleged to have thrown away the knife when the policeman caught up with him.

He was arrested on a charge of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, arraigned in Charlestown court and held for a hearing tomorrow in bail of $700.

HOW TO TRANSPORT LIQUOR AND GO FREE

Attorney Ralph L. Albert's client, Mathias Baden of No. 39 Suffolk street, Malden, was before Commissioner Hayes today charged with owning and transporting alcohol. Attorney Baden won his client's discharge on the technical claim that the automobile in which the alcohol was found did not belong to Baden. He cited a Supreme Court ruling in a similar case and Commissioner Hayes upheld him.

Another client, similarly charged won a respite because of indefinite claim that the alcohol seized was intended for use as a rubdown fluid. He insisted that the liquor seized from Hyman Rubin of No. 16 Grape street, Malden, be sent to Washington for analysis. So ordered by Commissioner Hayes.

WIFE NO. 2 PACKS UP AND GOES

Girl Married to Schwartz in England Didn't Know He Had Wife and 3 in Philadelphia

Following the arrest of her supposed husband, Henry Schwartz, of No. 7 Crowell street, Dorchester, on a charge [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Schwartz, wife No. 2, disappeared from her home today.

[illegible] her husband had a wife that he had neglected to divorce before marrying her, Mrs. Schwartz No. 2 collapsed when confronted by the police of station 19.

Tearfully she told the police that she had never been told of Schwartz's previous marriage. She said that she had married him in England a year ago and produced a marriage certificate as proof. She declared that Schwartz had been a devoted and wonderful husband during the year that she has lived with him as his wife.

Later when sought for information regarding the movements of Schwartz, the second wife could not be found. Mr. Giles, with whom the couple lived, said she had packed some things and saying that she was "through with Henry," left the house.

According to the police, Schwartz left a wife and three children in Philadelphia, neglecting to inform them of his departure or future address. Incidentally he neglected to secure a divorce from wife number one.

So when, after living in England for a while, Schwartz grew lonely, he wooed and won Louise Giles who, the police say, formerly lived in Philadelphia a Schwartz married the fair English beauty in London. He brought his bride to Boston. For a year the couple lived happily at 7 Crowell street, Dorchester.

Then arrived at the Mattapan station a warrant for Schwartz's arrest, charging him with desertion and non-support. Sergeant Williams looked him up. He found the couple in their room.

"Who is this woman?" asked the officer.

"I'm Mrs. Schwartz, Henry's wife," declared Louise.

"Sorry to contradict a woman, but you can't be; this fellow's wife and children are in Philadelphia, where he left them a couple of years ago. Guess he'll have to come along."

Louise nearly collapsed, but bore up while she produced a marriage certificate showing that she was guiltless of any blame. She said she had believed Henry single when she married him.

He was booked on statutory charges, on which he will be tried in Dorchester Court November 3, after which he will be taken to Philadelphia to face the bigamy charge.

NO ARMY MEN IN COAL THEFTS

In last Monday's issue of the Boston American was printed the statement that 100 tons of coal had been stolen from the South Boston Army Base.

Part of the coal, it was said, was stolen by children of the neighborhood. It was further stated that an officer was involved and a court-martial would follow. No name was mentioned.

Full investigation of the facts discloses that nobody connected with the army base had anything to do with the coal thefts. Coal was apportioned to army officers for their use, and the statement that an army officer was involved was without basis of fact.

This explanation is printed in justice to the personnel at the army base, no member of which was in any way involved in the matter, directly or indirectly.

WOMAN GOLF CHAMP HONORED AT BANQUET

Providence, Oct. 27.—Miss Glenna Collett, woman's national golf champion, was tendered a testimonial at the Hotel Biltmore by the Rhode Island Golf Association and the Rhode Island Women's Golf League. More than 200 were present. Among the guests were Governor Emery J. San Souci and Mayor Joseph H. Gainer of this city. There were also a number of golf enthusiasts from Boston. Miss Collett is twenty years of age. She won the championship recently at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

MANY VISITORS AT ROOSEVELT'S GRAVE

New York, Oct. 27.—For the first time since the United States entered the war, in 1917, the New York Navy Yard was thrown open to the public, and many paid their tribute, not only to the present sea forces, but also to the work of the late President Roosevelt as Assistant Secretary of the Navy by visiting and inspecting the ships at the yard.

Two places were picked out for special pilgrimages. One was to the stored home on East Twentieth street, where Theodore Roosevelt was born, and which was opened to visitors by the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association; the other was the grave of Roosevelt at Oyster Bay.

SCENE FROM "WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER"

Marion Davies, as Princess Mary Tudor, learns the latest French dance from the gallant English knight, Charles Brandon (Forrest Stanley) while Lady Jane Bolingbroke (Ruth Shepley) supplies the music and Sir Edwin Caskoden (Ernest Glendinning) completed the quartette of young lovers in "When Knighthood Was in Flower," Cosmopolitan's picturization of Charles Major's romance at the Park Theatre.

TRIUMPH FOR NEW DAVIES' FILM

Governor Cox and Smart Set Guests at Park Theatre Premiere

By FRED J. McISAAC.

We beat the Germans in the war, and now we have beaten them on their own ground, the making of historic moving pictures.

"When Knighthood Was in Flower," from the standpoint of photography and historic accuracy, is as good as the best German photoplay, and when it comes to an attractive and enthralling story it beats them worse than the Marines did at the Marne.

Marion Davies' newest photoplay is the high water mark of American motion pictures. It has the genius. They may equal it, but they won't surpass it ever.

The great picture, after extraordinary triumphs in London, New York and Chicago, opened at the Park Theatre last night. A corps of experts under the direction of Joseph Urban, in person, had been at work all this week transforming the Park into a thing of beauty and loveliness.

HERBERT HEADS ORCHESTRA.

It was Victor Herbert in person who led the big orchestra in "The Marion Davies March" composed by himself. You can be sure it was the first time the famous American composer and conductor led for a motion picture.

When the fire curtain rose it revealed a stage setting of incredible loveliness, designed by Urban, and representing a Baron al Hall of the Tudor period. A great golden door at the back was rolled back by pages and the screen was revealed.

BEAUTIFUL USHERS.

But let us not forget that the really distinguished audience which filled the theatre completely, and included the knighthood and obligary of modern Boston, were received by a corps of ladies as beautiful as a fleetfeld chorus, and arrayed in court costumes of the sixteenth century with ropes of pearls around their necks, and escorted to their seats. It was positively thrilling.

BIGGEST FILM YET.

After all the picture is the thing. All this presentation stuff is wonderful, but it wouldn't save a bad film. "When Knighthood Was in Flower" needs no props. Its the biggest, most artistic and thoroughly interesting costume picture made up to the present.

Charles Major wrote a great and absorbing novel of the love of Princess Mary Tudor, sister of King Henry VIII, and Charles Brandon, a simple gentleman, a true story by the way and one of the few love stories in history which ends happily. Luther Reed did a very wonderful job in arranging this novel for the screen, and Robert G. Vignola has demonstrated that he can rank with Griffith and Rex Ingram as a result of his work in directing "When Knighthood was in Flower."

MISS DAVIES STATELY.

Most important of all, Cosmopolitan had in Marion Davies an actress who in beauty, stateliness, dignity and sweetness could play a royal princess — a sincere and convincing manner. The work of this young star in Mary Tudor was a revelation to those who had not seen her for a year or two. Mary Tudor was a madcap princess, a daring, as well as a dainty girl, both regal and demure, mischievous and loving, scornful and coquettish, a creature

ALLEN CLAIMS COX SOUGHT DRY LAW

A serious break between the wet and dry forces in the Republican party was precipitated today when Attorney-General Allen declared in a letter to Louis A. Coolidge of the Constitutional Liberty League that it was not the Anti-Saloon League but Governor Cox who was responsible for the passage of the State Volstead Act.

Mr. Coolidge, head of the League which is bending all its efforts to repeal the Volstead law, was challenged by Mr Allen to a joint debate.

He declined, saying he wanted to give a good deal of time to supporting Senator Lodge and Governor Cox.

Mr. Allen today sent another letter for the passage of the State Volstead Act is the most important issue of the campaign, and declaring: "I can understand appreciate, however, your desire to give all my spare time to aid in the re-elect on of Senator Lodge and Governor Cox.

"But on my part, I believe that in my office as Attorney General I can render no more appropriate aid to the Governor in his campaign than in defending his course in advocating the law which the Constitutional Liberty League is opposing, but which the Governor declared in his inaugural address is required by considerat ons of impelling force."

It is the Volstead Act which John F. Fitzgerald has so strenuously opposed because he claims it will turn loose 4,000 more radicals to swoop down upon the houses of the people.

Mr. Fitzgerald has repeatedly tried to force Governor Cox to state his attitude on the act, but without success. It remained for Mr. Allen to bring to the notice of the voters that Governor Cox had demanded the enactment of such a law.

UNCONSCIOUS MAN FOUND IN AUTO

William Hughes, of High street, North Grafton, was discovered to lay unconscious in the driver's seat of a coupe parked on Commonwealth avenue, Newton. He showed no apparent injury, and physicians at Newton Hospital, where he was taken, began an examination into the cause of the condition.

He was found by Cornelius Moighan, of Commonwealth avenue, who said he saw the coupe parked several feet from the curb. After it had remained there some time, he became suspicious, and found Hughes sitting like a statue behind the wheel.

Burglar Carried Prayer Asking Lord to Protect Him

Newark, N. J., Oct. 27.—A charm against bad luck in his profession in the form of a prayer contained in a chamois bag tied around his neck was found on Frank Ray when the police arrested him as a burglar suspect.

"O Lord, protect me from shot and shell and all kinds of projectiles which I may encounter in my daily occupation."

MRS. COOK TOOK ARSENIC PILLS FOR ANEMIA

How he treated Mrs. Lizzie M. Cook of Revere, for pernicious anemia during April and May, 1921, was told by Dr. Michaele Nidro of Lynn, at the trial of J. Thomas Corrigan, charged with murder in the first degree. The case is being tried before the Superior Court.

Dr. Nidro said that Mrs. Cook was a typical case. He said that the disease comes, dizziness and loss of appetite.

"I was not surprised to hear of her death," he said.

The doctor told Assistant District Attorney Maurice Carro that if he knew that Mrs. Cook was filled with arsenic at the time of her death he would have acted differently than he did.

Corrigan is accused of having killed Mrs. Cook by giving her arsenic.

BORROWS' HAY FOR HORSE; FINED $15

Harry Yellovitz of Brighton street, West End, a pedlar, owns a horse which he parks in a Garden street stable, with the horses of other pedlars. But Patrolman Mark Grossman proved those horses aren't appearances. They stole Yellovitz of being a man in the manager." They maintained a watch over their horses several nights. They told Judge Cohen today they saw Yellovitz taking hay from their horses to feed his own. He was fined $15 for larceny.

SON DEMANDS ARREST OF MOTHER

The Maglios are in again.

Ralph Maglio appeared before Judge Hayden in the Roxbury court today and asked for a warrant for the arrest of his mother, Mrs. Mary Maglio of Quincy street, Roxbury.

It was the second time this year that he made such an application and when Judge Hayden demanded particulars Ralph said:

"My mother met me in the street yesterday and slapped my face. She said that if I didn't get away from my wife Katherine she'd stick me with a knife, and then spit on the knife."

Judge Hayden declined to give a warrant, suggesting that the only way out of the difficulty would be to have Ralph and his bride move to another town.

The trouble began some time ago when the mother applied for a warrant for the arrest of Ralph and Katherine, alleging that they had beaten her up. They in turn asked for a warrant for Mrs. Maglio, alleging that she had beaten them up.

It appears that Mrs. Maglio the elder objects to her son's choice of a wife and has always taken direct action to show her disapproval.

LYNN MAN GUILTY OF ATTACK ON BOY

William Aherne, Salem water department employe, was found guilty of assault on a fourteen-year-old Alphonse Provost of No. 24 Prince street, Salem, and placed on probation for a year, after Dr. John McSwain of Danvers State Hospital testified he was "above normal mentally" and that confinement was unnecessary.

Alphonse Provost

Aherne was charged with driving his automobile in a manner to the public. Sears characterized him as "a menace to the public."

FOOTBALL PLAYER DIES FROM INJURIES

Buffalo, Oct. 27.—Curt Jacobs of the Marinaville Community Football Team, died today from injuries received in a game Saturday. Bones in his spinal column were dislocated. Jacobs was a son of the Rev. Henry Jacobs.

"KNIGHTHOOD" FILM HAS BIG BOSTON TRIUMPH

mono- and whimsies I remember in Marlowe in the stage version this story some fifteen or eighteen years ago. She was a great actress but Marion Davies is Mary Tudor.

The Cosmopolitan secured to support Miss Davies the greatest collection of well known actors and actresses who ever appeared in one film. Most of them are persons who have actually appeared or been featured in stage productions. Their celebrated comedienne work is unsurpassed, as is that of Miss Norris, as Queen Claude, Ernest Glendinning, Ian Hunter, George Nash, Clair Donaldson, Flora Finch, Irene Cockle, Florence Short, Edna Gerrard—nobody ever heard such a cast before.

Ian Harding as Henry VIII has the most important role next to Miss Davies. His Henry is a younger monarch than that of Emil Jennings in "Deception," the German film. Harding plays bluff, king Hal, the idol of England. Jennings shows him in his wicked and dissolute middle age.

The settings by Joseph Urban show that marvelous artist in his very best work. The trappings of the Tudor period, the castles the gardens, the palaces the fighting grounds, the prisons and the landscapes are all alike masterpieces of research and artistry.

The story starts without unnecessary preliminaries and moves immediately we see a grim and realistic tournament. Mary Tudor meets Charles Brandon, the victor of the tournament and the interest begins and grows with never a let down until the last absorbing reels. The picture lasts three hours but time flies. Somehow you get transported on a magic carpet or something of the sort back through the ages and you actually live and breathe in France and England in the sixteenth century. The value of such a film in spreading knowledge of other ages than our own cannot be calculated. It is worth a library of musty tomes.

Hub's Entire 'Who's Who' Sees Film Premiere

By BETTY ALDEN.

INTO the lobby of the Park Theatre they streamed—smartly gowned matrons, dignified statesmen, fluffy-haired debutantes, and prominent officials. It was the opening night of Marion Davies in "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and it seemed as though Boston's entire "who's who" was there for the occasion.

Huge cardboard of wrought iron ♦ softly covered structures and huge vases of flowers had transformed the lobby completely. As the guests of honor of the evening entered the lobby, they were shown to their seats by a group of exceptionally pretty girl ushers, who all were dressed in the color of the Tudor rose, red from head to foot, in bright colored affairs.

HUB "SMART SET" THERE

Just about when the guests began to arrive, Victor Herbert took his station on hand and therewith the band played some music. While that was going on I looked around a bit to see "who was there." I saw tall and slender Mrs. Ollie Amos, Jr. Baroness Passendorfi, who was looking very lovely in a simple black evening gown over which she wore a short black evening wrap with a turned collar. Though her husband died several years ago the latest designers have not yet left the Baroness still confined herself to black and white apparel. In the party with her was her daughter, Mrs. Reginald Peak, a very youthful matron who has retained all the charm of her Harvard Yesterdays.

Miss Susan Sturgis was there in a tall, stately girl whose beauty needs was set off to advantage by the rose colored frock of chiffon which she wore. Among the matrons I noted in black was Mrs. Charles Ireton whose portrait done by the famous Sargent hangs in couples a very prominent place among the Bostonians collection at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. With her came her daughter, Miss Louise Ireton, who has been a leader in Hub society. She was presented at the court of St. James's and has been a frequent visitor at Buckingham Palace and other royal courts of Europe.

GOVERNOR IS BOXED.

Then I recognized Governor Cox and his wife. Governor Cox was the guest of honor at the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Peabody before the performance and he was escorted to his box by Mr. Peabody and Mr. Davies. Governor Cox looked very well and seemed to enjoy the performance very much.

Among the other guests who were present were the T. Jefferson Newbolds, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Binney, the Theodore Frothingham, Jrs., Mrs. Augustus Thorndike, Jr., Mrs. Roger F. Sturgis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bulfinch, the Robert S. Peters, Stephan V. R. Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wheelwright, Mrs. John L. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Adie, Mrs. Charles Peabody, Curtis, Mrs. Channing Frothingham, L. Cushing Goodhue, Mrs. Francis C. Gray, Mrs. Franz Zerrahn, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Howe, the Arthur Richmonds, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Scott, the Theodore Adamowskis, John Tu Kerman, Mrs. Jack Gardner, Mrs. Homer L. Bigelow, Mrs. Thomas P. Beal, Jr., S. Parker Brewer, Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, Mrs. Henry Lammond, Louis A. Shaw, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Thomas Nelson, Mrs. Charles Harding and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lyman, Jr., and others.

STATE CUP (FIRST ROUND

South Boston Celtics vs. Saxony Mills at Strandway.
Fore River vs. Shawsheen A. A. at Quincy.

By ART CURRIE.

Two State cup replays and one postponed contest in the same competition head the list for the attention of soccer enthusiasts tomorrow.

Sullivan Square will be the scene of a whirlwind battle between the Charlestown and Lynn Thistle elevens. Last Saturday the Necks were to hold the fast Lynn outfit to a one-goal draw at Lynn and Vic Irvin is confident that with the regular Charlestown crowd of "Loyal Rooters" on hand to give encouragement, his boys will romp home an easy winner.

The Thistles, however, have a nice little team and with Ernie Nichols, their dashing centre-forward in the pivot position, the Lynn aggregations may get a surprise as they did last season against the same club in the same competition. Nichols is one of those speedsters who is hard to stop once under way and knows the general position of the uprights.

Both Outfits Are Very Evenly Matched

Both outfits, on their season's showing, are pretty evenly matched and the fans who go out to this popular ground will witness a hot exhibition.

Clan Sutherland will journey out to Cooper street, Lynn, and make another attempt to down the General Electrics. These two clubs have already met twice before and although the Scotsmen had the best of the play in both matches their forwards have been unable to collect enough goals to win.

Jolly Green will have Tommy Lee forward back in the forward line at outside right and Allan Wood will resume his original position as full back. The Brockton managers have been having difficulty in forming a forward line that could find the goal, but they are banking on the old saying "the third never fails."

South Boston fans will be given an opportunity to witness a match battle when the South Boston Celtics endeavor to eliminate Vic Young's Quincy boys. The Celtics will be seen at the Strandway Park. The Quincy team has defeated Fore River and Shawsheen A. A. of Somerville and will give any local team a tough battle.

The Celtics are backing their home team to some extent on the ability of Young Saxony, a Quincy boy, who was originally signed as a ringer but in reality games exhibited considerable class as an outside left.

There are also four good Boston and District League matches on the bill and Fore River will be at home to the Shawsheen A. A. in the Industrial League.

NORWOOD'S COACH MAKES GOOD

When Benney Murrey took charge of Norwood High's football team last season the outlook was dark. The former Boston College star worked hard with raw material and only after weeks of hard driving and perseverance did he work, what coaches consider, a miracle. Benney won the hearts of the players on his first appearance. Every lad on the squad was back of him. The team that year won ten games without a defeat. This achievement won over the people in Norwood. From the ovations given the team at every game it will be the biggest year the local high has ever experienced in the football line.

CHARLEY WHITE TO GET A SET-UP

Charlie White of Chicago and Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia have been rematched for an eight round contest to be staged at the Olympia A. A. in Philadelphia on November 6. The two men met at the Metropolitan Velodrome last June in the Chicagoan's home town and a knockout in the third round.

Bobby Barrett.

The Olympia A. A. promotion has put a good card that night, a stage that first entertained scores of the best boxers in the land. On Thanksgiving night last season Matchmaker Jack Hurley set pugilistic enthusiasts a-buzz to gather and find present plans Lew Tendler will probably box Harry Murphy a string of ponies.

TUNNEY PICKED TO WIN OVER WIGGINS IN C. A. C. FEATURE

SOLDIER CHAMP OUT TO GET SIKI BOUT

By JACK CONWAY.

Gene Tunney, who may get the first bout with Battling Siki when the latter invades America, will make his Boston bow tonight when he quarrels with Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis in a ten-round bout at the Commercial A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building.

Tunney is one of those rare kind of ring men who was a fighter in time of war. He served overseas with the A. E. F. and also won the heavyweight championship of that illustrious body of fighting men.

Returning to this country, Tunney went about his business of fighting and finally won the American light heavyweight title by knocking out Battling Levinsky. Being a real fighting man, Gene didn't aim to retire when challenged by Harry Greb, one of the most brilliant of our light heavyweights.

They mix battled for fifteen rounds in New York and Greb won the decision. Greb later went to Philadelphia and was outpointed by Tommy Loughran, Quaker City boxer. Tunney followed Greb into Philadelphia and gave Loughran a setback.

Tunney is a youngster and as a result has wonderful possibilities as far as adding ring fame is concerned.

Just now Gene is directing all of his fire on Battling Siki. The conqueror of Georges Carpentier has refused to meet Kid Norfolk and as a result Tunney figures that he may be the young man to step in the other corner when Siki washes his American debut.

Tunney, like other keen judges of ring affairs, believes that Siki, in view of his age and that he will have tough sledding the first time he meets a man of unquestioned ability.

Tunney, having been trained in doing things properly when in the army, has not missed his lack of experience with Siki in a very business like manner. He has announced he is going to meet all comers and that heavyweight champion and pretender to the young man to get against Siki.

Chuck Wiggins Rated as Rugged Fighter

Chuck Wiggins, whom Tunney meets tonight, will give the soldier champion a real test. Wiggins is not very well known in the East as he has not been seen in action in the Middle West. But the fact that Wiggins has always been able to get matches in his home town is ample proof that he is a rugged warrior. Young Jack Wiggins battled Leo Houck here last season he gave a fighting exhibition and although he was outpointed Houck was glad to call it a draw. Wiggins is a clever boxer and a fighting machine.

Red Chapman will have Willie Corbett as an opponent in the semi-final. Frankie Ryan will oppose Johnny Fox, while Kenny Finch and Al Sears will tie conclusions.

Travers Has Fine Chance to Grab the Title

Mickey Travers of New Haven is very likely to win the New England featherweight championship when he battles Chuck Rogers of Newport in a ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House Tuesday night. Travers has done some sensational fighting in New England rings during the past year. He has defeated about every boxer of prominence with the exception of Rogers. The latter refused numerous offers to meet Travers.

Vic Richardson manager of Travers finally conferred Wiggs and the latter, through his manager, Dave Lipkowitz signed for the finale. It was agreed that the weight for the bout would be 126 pounds ringside. Each manager posted a forfeit of $100 with this writer for weight or appearance.

The Armory Club bid for the match and made an offer, which was accepted.

Wiggs and Travers are both busy, training for this finale. It is expected that the match will turn out more thrills than any contest between little men staged in a New England ring in a long time. The fact that the Arena A. C. will not stage a show Monday night, gives the Armory Club the right of way for its show.

WALKER'S PUNCH MAY TIP BRITTON OVER

By RINGSIDE

Jack Britton

A fighter with a punch is always dangerous. That's why Jack Britton, welterweight champion, is giving more than ordinary attention to his fifteen-round title battle with Mickey Walker which will be staged at Madison square Garden, New York, next Wednesday night.

Walker is the hardest hitting welterweight since the palmy days of Joe Walcott. When he ticks them on the chin with a left or right hand thrust, they usually double up and fade out of the picture.

Mickey hasn't fought since his tussle with Jock Malone at the Arena last August. He has been taking things easy and is now ready to step right out front and wallop his way to a victory.

Maybe Mickey will be the fortunate one to take Britton's title.

As Britton and Walker are both of local favorites, Boston and New England fans will await the outcome of the New York bout with a great deal of interest.

Billy Henderson manager of Eddie Shevlin has signed the Roxbury welterweight to battle the winner of next Wednesday night's quarrel. The affair will be staged at Madison Square Garden the latter part of November.

Shevlin has been boxing better during the past year than at any time during his sensational ring career. His figures that he's all set to step out and grab a world's championship.

New Yorkers are anxious to see Shevlin in action on account of his victory over George Ward and Dave Shade.

JOHNNY DOWNES IS WINNER AT LOWELL

Lowell, Oct. 27.—Johnny Downes of South Boston was given the decision over Joe St. Hilaire of Somerworth, N. H., in a ten-round bout at the Moody A. A.

Martin Flaherty, Jr., of Lowell, knocked out Bill Gallant of Hyde Park in the second round of an intomed eight-round bout.

Jack Conway Says Tunney Will Win Over Wiggins

T		W
10	Gene Tunney, soldier, champion and former American light-heavyweight title holder, makes his Boston bow tonight with Chuck Wiggins in the other corner. And Jack Conway says:	71

"Tunney will win. Our soldier boys will think they're over there once more when they see Gene battling Tunney. It will be remembered, was the A. E. F. champion. He later grabbed the American light-heavyweight title.

"Wiggins has fought the best men in the light-heavyweight division and has a great deal of ability. It will be a tough battle, but Tunney will win."

P. C. .876

LEAHY IS WINNER IN ADAIR BOUT

Worcester, Oct. 27.—Tommy Leahy of Worcester defeated Barney Adair of New York in a fast and hard ten-round feature bout at the Pioneer A. C. show in Mechanics Hall.

The veteran Adair flashed brightly in the middle stages of the battle but Leahy got a good lead starting away and flashed strongly also. Adair was hanging on in the 8th round when it appears that Leahy might put over a knockout.

Willie Corbett of Somerville knocked out Eddie Savash of New Bedford in the fifth round. They were scheduled to go ten chanters, Savash, substituting for Kid Lee of Lowell, knocked Corbett through the ropes just before the bell ended the bout.

Young Tansey of Roxbury stopped Charlie Sheppard of Woburn in the third chapter of a scheduled ten-rounder.

DILBOY POST BILLS AMATEUR SHOW

The next amateur boxing tournament of the George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will be held in K of C Hall, Highland avenue, Somerville, on November 8. The classes to be contested are 115, 118, 125, 135 and 145 pounds. In adding the latter class to the show, the committee is endeavoring to give the followers of the amateurs an opportunity to see some of the heavier boys perform.

From the calibre of the entries being received for each class, it is very evident there will be some keen competition and the fans will be treated to the usual good show always staged by this post. Entries close, Tuesday, November 7, with George A. Bowles, Room 3, K of C Building, Somerville, Mass.

HARVARD, LAFAYETTE AND TUFTS ELEVENS RULE FAVORITES

MANY GRID SURPRISES IN STORE FOR FANS

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

The day of days in Greater Boston football is at hand.

Harvard versus Dartmouth at the Stadium; Boston College versus Lafayette; Brown, Pratt and Tufts versus Wesleyan at Medford, is the local program, and, unless the dope is as twisted as Aunt Maria's switch, each one thereof scuffles will be a whangwixzle, a whoofwow and a yipzassah, or something of equally-peppy proportions.

Harvard, Lafayette and Tufts rule the respective favorites, but we anticipate an upset in at least one, and possibly all three of the conflicts, for the Dartmouth team that will face Harvard will be a strong, spirited array; the Boston College eleven that will oppose Lafayette will know and will play a lot of good football, and the Wesleyan outfit that will clash with Tufts believes it can outplay and should outluck the Casey collection.

Although their records may not reveal it, the disfavored team in each instance so closely approaches the strength and ability of its opponent that a favorable break or two may swing the tide of battle either way.

As Demosthenes so tearfully moaned

"Woe to the nap that pulls a boner or muffs a punt."

Upon so magnificent a happening defeat may come and with it a prominent niche in the hall of shame for the guilty parties.

Law of Averages May Upset All the Dope

Unfortunately, the only man who knows which teams are to stand in with Dame Fortune tomorrow, moved from this neighborhood several days ago without slipping us the low down on the subject. But all of the eleven teams have been nearly favored to date and the law of averages should send something nice to either Dartmouth, Boston College or Wesleyan, and possibly to all three.

Notwithstanding the rare promise of the Greater Boston grid engagements this section will not furnish the setting for all the bang-up contests on tomorrow's program. The date schedule fairly bristles with important clashes and before the week-end rolls around we in the vicinity will know, at least a number of proud escutcheons will be spattered with the damaging flags of defeat.

Just a Few of the Feature Numbers

Just a few of the feature numbers were the bout are the Yale-West Point game at New Haven, the Penn State-Navy engagement at Philadelphia, the Navy-Pennsylvania game at Philadelphia, the West Virginia-Rutgers contest at Morgantown, the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech battle at Atlanta, while in the Middle West, in addition to the long-heralded clashes between Conference rivals, there is the record-breaking meeting of Princeton and Chicago.

We shall view favor West Point in the game at New Haven. Of course Yale may have developed very rapidly since we saw Iowa overcome the Blue, but this each week-end unheralded the veteran Army team which is, but won last year's game with a last year appears a shade stronger eleven should [illegible] over Yale's kids and [illegible] good [illegible] there seems real reason [illegible] although

West Pointers Use Lot of Notre Dame Stuff

The West Pointers this year are using no shortage of the Notre Dame stuff. The Notre Dame shift, we have been told, is being used by the Notre Dame forward passing system is also being operated and the Yale defensive are far from [illegible] have been to date, the Eleven should profit immensely by the Pool Grounds we would not be surprised to learn of a Syracuse victory over Penn State. The latter team is not so strong as last year, while Syracuse is stronger, much stronger than its record to date would indicate. Of course, Penn State will be the favorite. The Nittany Lions have won all their games, whereas Syracuse was held to a scoreless tie by Brown, and defeated by Pittsburgh. That scoreless tie and that defeat, however, can be charged to ill fortune, for the Orange soundly outplayed both Brown and Pittsburgh, and is now overdue for a boost from Lady Luck.

The Philadelphia feature involving the Navy and Pennsylvania looks like another victory for our armed forces, albeit the Navy outfit this year is lacking the power it displayed in 1921. We have a hunch Bob Folwell, the Navy coach, who was succeeded at Pennsylvania by John Heisman, the present Penn mentor, would like awfully well to show his former charges the grave mistake that was made in not returning him to Philadelphia, and if the Navy does get going, we expect it will "bear down."

However, the Red and Blue is far from a weak outfit this year and may show sufficient stuff to gum up Folwell's plans.

"Cutie" Spears' Mountaineers are the pick in the Rutgers' game at Morgantown. The former appear to have been caught off their guard by Washington and Lee last week, which team held West Virginia to a tie, but on Saturday Spears team should be functioning properly, and if so Foster Sanford's charges are in for a busy session.

The loss through graduation or professionalism of all except two members of the 1921 Notre Dame team seems not to have bothered Knute Rockne to any great extent for the inland Catholic University is leading along at its customary pace, uncovering new stars to take the places of Mohardt, Anderson and others. We expect it to continue Saturday although a real and most thrilling battle should develop.

That expected result will give Middle-West football another boost and if Chicago accomplishes the anticipated over Princeton and Detroit defeats Springfield, and Oberlin overcomes Amherst, as are the general expectations, the East will have to argue long and loud if it is to convince the world its football is superior to that of the remainder of the U. S. A.

Chicago All Set for the Coming of Tiger

Chicago, by the way, is all set for the coming of the Tiger. To throw off the Princeton scout Coach Stagg used a team made up of subs in the last week. He showed fourteen in the game from Ohio Wesleyan, but only eleven was Chicago's full first string operating at the same time. The game was an easy one for the Maroons who did not plan to be on top of their game until tomorrow.

Some bitterness developed as the result of the alleged tactics of certain Princetonians in last season's battle at Princeton, and now that Chicago will play the Tigers in Chicago's back yard, the Maroon array may seek vengeance as well as victory.

Majority of Eastern Games Show a Decided Favorite

The majority of the Eastern contests not already touched upon shows a pronounced favorite, with the possible exception of the Vermont-Holy Cross game. Vermont will rule the odds-on team, but Holy Cross may spring a surprise, by any chance. Vermont's victory may be overconfidence as may be the case.

Brown is the favorite over B. U. Colgate over Williams, Colgate over Norwich, Maine over Connecticut, Bowdoin over Bates, New Hampshire over Massachusetts Aggies, Pittsburgh over Bucknell, Carlisle over Louisville, George Tech over Emory and Henry, and Lehigh over Muhlenberg.

Every qualification of a championship eleven is to be found in the West Point team. They have power, fine strength and a stone wall of defense. It is considered a improvement over the Army outfit that gave Yale such a nervous afternoon last season.

HUB ELEVEN IN INTER-CITY TOURNEY

Boston will be represented in the three-day inter-city field hockey tournament, to be held in Philadelphia, Pa., late in November, when the teams of several other large cities, including New York and Philadelphia, will play for the field hockey championship of the country.

An All Boston eleven will be picked by the Boston Field Hockey Association from the best players on the nine clubs in the organization, and also from the allied teams, which are the high school elevens in Greater Boston.

The trials for the All Boston team will be made next week.

Seven Englishwomen, members of the old English team that came here last year, are now coaching in this country. They came here offering their services without charge, other than the expense of board and travel, to coach the various field hockey teams, under the direction of the United States Hockey Association. The Boston Field Hockey Association secured Iwa May Wilson, who is doing good work about Boston, and Miss Pearson, who is devoting considerable time at Wellesley College, and also at Wheaton.

TIGERS HAVE BAG OF TRICKS FOR CHICAGO

New York, Oct. 27.—In the wake of the Princeton football squad, now in Chicago for their big intersectional game with the Maroon tomorrow, a left the report that the Tigers have gone West with the biggest bag of tricks it has ever assembled.

It is claimed that Bill Roper has gone in for the unusual in his plans for the offensive to make up for his shortcomings of the team at the quarterback post and other positions.

It is understood that the Tiger repertoire includes two shifts, a pass modeled after the old West Virginia formation of Rodger's day and another to be worked behind the Cogate spread formation.

CANNELL CONFIDENT OF GREEN VICTORY OVER CRIMSON

DARTMOUTH MAPS OUT GAME TO BEAT HARVARD

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 27.—Dartmouth ended its last practice and it right week in preparation for the Harvard game, with five hundred en thusiastic undergraduates gathered outside the Alumni Gymnasium dressing room and cheered the Green warriors. The informal rally, started by an outburst of fighting spirit, was one of the most en thusiastic ever held in Hanover.

Coach Cannell, forced to the window of his dressing room by the calls for him outside, spoke for the first time this season for a few minutes in response to the cheers of the students. He said: "Dartmouth goes to Cambridge, not to play a football game, not to go through any mechanical motion, but to win. This meeting here has given me one of the happiest moments I have ever experienced in Hanover. It shows the light we want and that every one of the football players will show Saturday."

Fifty-one men formed the official Dartmouth party which left for the Belmont Springs Country Club, where the Green establishes official headquarters tonight for the night before the Harvard game. Thirty-four of the party are players, the rest are coaches, trainers and managers.

Varsity Went Through An Hour's Signal Drill

No letup was shown by the coaches in the last session of practice as far as hard work was concerned, although the practice was the shortest of the week.

The varsity team went through an hour's signal drill and then through a dummy scrimmage with the scrub team. Three other teams were also sent through signals.

Th's is the lineup which will take the field at the opening whistle in the Stadium before the wearers of the Green and Crimson clash.

Calder, Smith and Lee Were in the Signals

Chuck Calder was alternated with Harris, Smith with Mills, and Lee with Leavitt for a few minutes during the signal drill.

Pudge Neidlinger spent half an hour working on the placement kick, while Harris, Calder and Wright punted for a while.

The team showed more fight and concerted charge than it has shown in any practice thus far this season.

The spontaneous rally came at the close of the practice session and brought joy to the tired hearts of he football men; they brought their week of hard work afternoon and ight to a close.

Three Thousand at Monster Mass Meeting

A monster mass meeting was held n Webster Hall and three thousand undergraduates, townspeople and fac ulty members attended. Chick Burke, injured captain of the Green eleven, and Dean Craven Laycock spoke. The crowd gave cheer after cheer for Cannell and the other coaches, and for every member of he team.

Today two thousand Dartmouth students left for Cambridge, not confident of winning, but with a feeling of irrepressible hope in their hearts. The fact that twenty years ago Dartmouth was tied by Vermont, the first success of a Vermont eleven since Dartmouth, and that the following week, Dartmouth went to he Stadium and defeated Harvard, may have something to do with it, without regard for the merits of operations.

Three Special Trains Filled With Students

Three special trains filled with students left the Norwich Hanover station at noon, while over the roads of New Hampshire toured several hundred more students and alumni.

On Hailey Mills does every one of hese enthusiasts base their hopes. Mills, only three weeks go, was a ike by football fans. He is more seriously considered than any other ember of the Green team.

That the little fellow is blessed with self-confidence, fighting spirit and coolness under the most extreme pressure, has been proved in he last two games when without any previous experience, he was rushed in by Coach Cannell to direct the Green drives.

On Mills rests the burden of the Harvard game. Frankie Smith, who piloted the eleven all last year and the first part of this year, will be on the sidelines, but Smith has had trouble with his ankles lately and could not last the whole game even if he started.

The men making the trip are J. C. Allen, C. G. Aschenbach, S. B. Bjorkman, C. A. Bolles, C. F. Burke, C. A. Calder, R. P. Carpenter, S. E. Ellis, J. F. Foster, A. R. Goldstein, N. S. Gordon, V. B. Hazenbuckle, R. M. Harris, W. S. Hatch, L. S. Leavitt, G. H. Lee, E. B. Lynch, G. S. Maloney, D. R. Moore, G. T. Murphy, L. K. Neidlinger, E. Rea, N. O. Siegfried, F. H. Smith, G. T. Stevens, R. C. Sweetser, J. T. Taylor, L. A. Thompson, M. H. Watkins, S. P. Wright, E. H. Whittaker; coaches Cannell, Robertson, Ryan, McAuliffe, Tobin, Jennings, Proctor, Hawley Millmore, Thiebelher, and Bankhart, Dr. John W. Bowler; Trainers Watson and DeCourcey, and Manager Leamard and Fuldman.

YOUNG GLENDON GETS CHANCE AS COACH

Annapolis, Oct. 27.—The coming year will give Richard J. Glendon, son of the former rowing coach, his opportunity at the United States Naval Academy. He has done fine work with junior crews and it is believed will make good in the larger field. He is now working with a squad of oarsmen who are not playing football. Most of his varsity material, however, is with the football squad at present.

BECKLEY GETS TRAINING START

Cliff Beckley the big Western wrestler got right down to hard work this morning to round out his condition for his match with Stanley Zbyszko which will be one of the two big numbers of George Tuohey's all star show in Mechanics building next Wednesday night.

Beckley looks and acts like the high grade performer he has proved himself to be. He stands over six feet in height and will scale at 226 pounds against 230 for the Pole.

"I held Zbyszko even up for an hour when I met him in Columbus, when I was less experienced than I am now," he said. "With what I have learned since and as confidence gained in my draw with Lewis I feel that I will come through with flying colors, as good as I know Zbyszko to be."

Elmer Sanders, the other Western star, who will meet Frank Judson, is due in this evening or tomorrow morning.

Squad Gets High Marks

Fitchburg, Oct. 27.—Fitchburg high school teachers are proud of the football squad. Out of thirty seven boys only one failed to get good marks when the reports were given out today.

NITTANYS LOSE BENTZ AND McMAHON

State College, Pa., Oct. 27.—Penn State's football squad is in New York city, where the important clash with Syracuse will take place at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

The Nittany Lions held their last practice, a light signal drill late yesterday.

Although Captain Bentz, veteran centre, and Tiny McMahon, giant right tackle, were with the squad there is some doubt as to their being able to enter the game. Both were kept out of scrimmage in order to give their injuries time to strengthen and in their absence the coaches developed new men for the position. Bentz is more likely to start than McMahon, for the latter is limping badly from a bruised foot secured in the Middlebury game. In case both are unable to start the game, Hamilton will be found at centre, Flock at left guard, and Logue at right tackle.

B.C. SQUAD ALL SET FOR LAFAYETTE GAME

The Boston College football squad will end the stiffest week of practice since the season opened. Coach Cavanaugh has worked with the team until dark every afternoon, perfecting plays, speeding up the line and putting the backfield in top shape for tomorrow's game with Lafayette.

Believing that Lafayette's deceptive plays can be stopped only by a line that can crash through the defence, Cavanaugh has devoted much time in the coaching of the tackles. Meahane and Paton will have plenty of work against the invading line, and much will depend on their ability to break through into the Lafayette backfield.

The Eagle line will mass Joe Kane, Bolan at tackle, but Walsh seasoned to fill his place, and Doyle at guard, will not be materially weakened. Bolanine, a veteran of last year's eleven, should play a good game at tackle, as that is the position he played last Fall and he has had plenty of experience at the job. "Chuck" Darling was able to leave his bed, but did not join in the practice. His cold has improved, but has not entirely left him. He may call the signals this afternoon so that there will be no chance of a slip-up tomorrow.

Wilson looks good at fullback, and ought to fill Kelleher's place creditably. If Lafayette uses the plays which Assistant Coach Joy has analyzed Wilson will have quite a little to watch in the double and triple pass plays which have helped Lafayette to so many victories.

Tomorrow's contest will be interesting for the reason that both Boston College and Lafayette hold cups awarded by the Veteran's Athletic Association of Philadelphia. Boston College received the award in 1920 as champions of the East, while Lafayette was the recipient last year.

With eight regulars of last season in the eleven Lafayette feels confident that it can overcome Boston College. Certainly, with teams like Pittsburgh on the list of victims, the Easterners have good reason to believe that the Eagle is not strong enough to stop the long list of victories.

More importance is attached to the Lafayette game by Boston College than to any game on the schedule. In Lafayette, Boston College will have an opponent more of its own class. The Eagle warriors believe they have a chance to win, and will be in their best form for the contest.

There has been a big demand for tickets for the B. C. Lafayette game and the largest crowd of the season is expected to witness the battle.

BARRETT'S LOSS A BIG BLOW TO TUFTS

The loss of Red Barrett on the eve of the Wesleyan game is the toughest blow yet sustained by the Tufts eleven. Red must undergo an operation for appendicitis and of course is lost to varsity football for the present season.

All season long the injury jinx has dogged Eddie Casey's men. Cook, Chandonet, Thompson, Shaw, Macchia and Eiselman have been laid up with injuries. "Chandy" and Thompson are hobbling about and probably will not get into Saturday's contest.

In his extremity Coach Casey has drafted Jack Hughes for right end and Wilson for Thompson's place at guard. Both are backs, but as a curious of good backfield material ex ists the coaches decided upon this shift which seemed to work well in practice.

Eiselman has taken up the quarter back's duties once more and the eleven seems to work more smoothly under his direction. Barrett will return to his old place at right half. He is the best open field runner on the squad and should show to better advantage when not under the responsibility of leading the team.

The Tufts Freshman eleven will line up against the Huntington School footballers this afternoon at Tufts Oval. The yearlings have been putting up a good brand of football and should come off with a win. Coach Ollie Wescott has announced his lineup as follows:

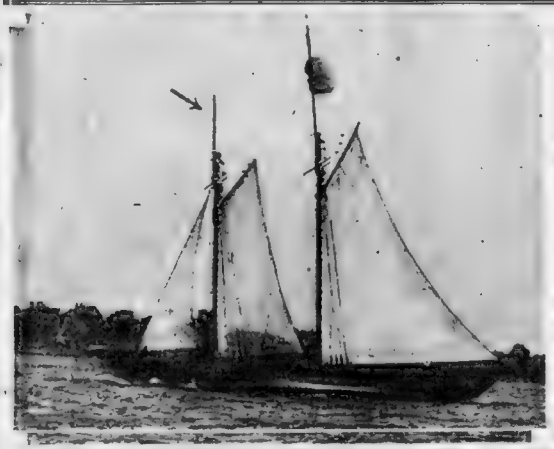
BOSTON PAYS TRIBUTE TO THE SAILORS AND Marines! Thirteen United States ships took part in the "Navy Day" program, which included everything from sports, speech making, band concerts, pageants and naval reviews. The Navy Yard at Charlestown was a blaze of color. Other Greater Boston naval units also participated in the celebrations. Above is a remarkable panoramic photo of the Navy Yard, made by an American cameraman. At left is Ensign F. J. Thomas of Springfield, symbolizing the navy, and right, Private Harry S. Brown, representing Marine Corps.



HERE'S HOW THE HENRY FORD LIMPED ACROSS THE FINISH LINE WITH her favorite crew, flying jib and topsail flopping in the sea. The arrow points to the broken remains of the topmast. The Burnoose had a lead of only 31 seconds when the accident occurred, on the fourth leg. Coming on the toss of the reserve by the Ford, unrestrained murmurings of "fixed" races are heard on all sides today in Gloucester. Most of the residents are in an angry mood. Brandon Proves His Prowess as a Swordsman Defending Princess Mary.

World-Famous Story of the All-Conquering Power of Love Over the Heart of the Wilful and Beautiful Sister of the Autocratic King Henry VIII.

This famous story has been created into a superlative production by Cosmopolitan Productions, direction of Robert G. Vignola. It is released as a Paramount picture

By Charles Major

"IT is all over with us I know I would give everything I have or ever expect to have on earth for—for Master Brandon at this moment," she thought of him as the one person best able to defend her.

The man was too welcome an opportunity and Jane said: That is Master Brandon coming up the hill. If we wait a few seconds he will be here and she called to him before Mary could interpose.

Now there are just two ways in which an ignorance was at once as was Mary had so ardently wished but the danger and therefore the need was not over when she found that the man who was coming then had no eyes for them. Two thoughts quickly flashed through the girl's mind. She was afraid of Brandon for having sighted her love as she had succeeded in concealing it from him; it was the case all of which Grou he had confirmed by telling her he was false. Then she had been discovered in doing what she knew she should have left undone; at least she was anxious to conceal from every one but the worst of all had been discovered by the very person from whom she was most anxious to hide it.

So she turned upon Jane angrily. "Jane Boleyn, you will leave me as soon as we get back to Greenwich for this betrayal of my confidence."

She was not afraid now that the danger was over and feared no new danger with it under at hand to protect her for in her heart she felt that to overcome a few fiery dragons and a company or so of giants would be a mere pastime to him; yet see how she treated him. The girls had stopped when Jane called Brandon, and he was at once by their side with uncovered head hoping for and of course expecting a warm welcome. But even Brandon, with his fund of worldly philosophy had not learned not to put his trust in princesses, and his surprise was benumbing when Mary turned angrily upon him.

"Master Brandon, your impudence in following us shall cost you dearly. We do not desire your company and will thank you to have us to our own affairs, as we wish you to attend exclusively to yours."

This from the girl who had given him "so much within less than a week" Poor Brandon!

Jane who had rallied him up and was the cause of his following them, began to weep.

Sir," said she "forgive me; it was not my fault she had just said—" Sap came Mary's hand on Jane's mouth; and Jane was marched off weeping bitterly.

The girls had started up toward East Cheap when they left Grouche's intending to go home by an upper route and now they walked rapidly in that direction Brandon continued to follow them, notwithstanding what Mary had said and she choked him and her God ever after that he did it.

They had been walk ng not more than five minutes when, just as they turned behind a corner into a secluded little street winding its way among the fish warehouses four horsemen passed Brandon in evident pursuit of them. Brandon hurried forward, but before he reached the corner heard a cr es of fright, and as he turned into the street did not ly saw that two of the men had dismounted and were trying to overtake the fleeing girls. Fright lent wings to their feet and their short skirts affording freedom to their limbs they were giving the pursuers a warm little race, screaming at every step to the full limit of their voices. How they did run and scream! It was but a moment till Brandon came up with the pursuers who, all unconscious that they in turn were pursued, did not expect an attack from the rear. The men remaining on horseback shouted an alarm to the r comrades but no ntent were the latter in their pursuit that they did not hear. One of the men on foot fell dead, pierced through the back of the neck by Brandon's sword, before either was aware of his presence. The other turned, but was a corpse before he could cry out. The girls had stopped a short distance ahead, exhausted by their flight. Mary had stumbled and fallen, but had risen again, and both were now leaning just a wall, clinging to each ot e picture of abject terror fashion ran to the girls, but by the time he reached them the two mean horseback were there also bo ing away at him from their sides. Brandon did his best to ac himself from being cut to pie and the girls from being ma ed under foot by the prancing orses. A narrow jutting of bri k, a foot or two in width, a sort of flying buttress, gave him a e advantage, and up into the ed shelter of the corner this pair he thrust the girls and with his back to them, fa ed his unequal foe with drawn sword. Fortunately the position o sword only one horseman to attack them. Two men on foot wo l have been less in an h other s way and much more effective The men however drew back to their horses and one of their passed the attack, striking at Brandon now, vic ously. It being dark and the distance deceptive the horseman s sword at least a foot s he was a fa m of space giving him a real and lu ky it was or the story would have ended here. Then Jane Brandon thrust his sword into the horse s throat, causing it to rear backward, plunging and hanging into the street, where it fell, holding its rider by the leg against the cobblestones of a little gutter.

A cry from the fallen horseman brought his companion to his aide, and gave Brandon an opportunity to escape with the girls. Of the he took advantage, you may be sure, for one of his natures was that the greatest fool in the world is he who does not early in life learn how and when to run.

In the light of the sparks from the sword stroke upon the wall brief as it was, Brandon recognized the face of Buckingham, from which the mask had fallen. Of this he did not speak to any one till long afterward, and his silence was almost his undoing.

How often a word spoken or unspoken may have the very deuce in it, either way!

The girls were nearly dead from fright, and in order to make any sort of progress Brandon had to carry the princess and help Jane until he thought they were out of danger. Jane soon recovered, but Mary did not seem anxious to walk, and lay with her head upon Brandon s shoulder, apparently contented enough.

In a few minutes Jane said, "If you can walk now, my lady, I think you had better. We shall soon be near Simmonsere's Hall, where some one is sure to be waiting at this hour."

Mary said nothing in reply to Jane But, as Brandon felt a step or two behind at a narrow crossing, whispered:

"Forgive me, forgive me; I will do any penance you ask. I am unworthy to speak your name. I owe you my life and more—and more a thousand times. At this she lifted her arm and placed her hand upon his cheek and neck. She then learned for the first time that he was wounded, and the tears came softly as she slipped from his arms to the ground. She washed beside him quietly for a little time, then, taking his hand in both of hers, gently lifted it to her lips and laid it upon her breast. Half an hour afterwards Brandon left the girls at Bridewell House, went over to the Bridge where he had left his horse at a hostelry, and rode down to Greenwich.

So Mary had made her trip to Grouche's, but it was labor more than lost. Grouche had told her nothing she wanted to know, though much that he supposed she would like to learn. He had told her she had many lovers, a fact which her face and form would make any woman to discover. He info med her also that she had a low born lover, and in order to put a little evil in with the good fortune and give what he said an air of truth, he added to Mary s woes of unrest more than he thought by telling her that her low born lover was Jane. He thought to flatter her by telling that she would soon marry a very great prince or nobleman, the intimation being in favor of the former, and in place of this making her happy she wished the wretched coolhauser in the bottomless pit—he and all his people except Jane, too for going to him. His guesses were pretty correct that is admitting he did not know who Mary was when she sent for him. Jane supposed was the case. So Mary wept that night and moaned, and moaned because she had gone to Grouche's. It had added greatly to the pain of which her heart was already too full and made her thoroughly wretched and unhappy.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By Ann Lisle

"MISS STORR is needed where she is," I replied stiffly. "And I have Miss May."

"On a dear little feeble lady like Miss May you do not impose. Rather on yourself Miss Storrs is not needed where she is." I contradicted Rosa flatly.

"HOW CAN YOU SAY THAT?" I DEMAND. "YOU DON'T WANT MY JIM."

"Then he put her there," Jane does not know that he will meet me. He does not KNOW how impatient we shall be and how he shall send for him the moment he arrives—how quickly—I am not lower. But now that I am here to speak for him, it is not well that I should be speaking against a wall of stone. Which is now that Miss Storrs seems to be—and she between me and all I think it is wise we should do."

"Surely you can't feel that Mabel Storrs would be in the moment he were you and your interest in Jim's success," said Wolfrid gravely and really taken by Rosa's spite.

But suddenly she turned out into something beyond her ordinary malice. The timbre of her voice carried at least the conviction that she felt what she said—that she believed in her and the message she was delivering.

"I know it," she cried. "With that terrible Senor West she was once infatuate. With him we once rode in the days of the Inquisition. Only we could find them and so work faster than she. I make it no no stupid and slow courts of If we had the papers she would be all to me—how joyous! Then Jam would depart, back (my maybe should) no more. I that Jaime and I come back—while I am here. Maybe not!"

"How can you say that?" I demanded. "I want my Jim to come back to me whenever he has accomplished his mission. Your being here—or anywhere else—doesn't affect the situation at all. Jim will come back to me. What difference does it make whether we have three or three dozen good friends and whether they ha l from the Argentina or the North Pole? The thing s for Jim and me to be together again."

"You think so?"

In Rosa's voice was distilled sweetness. Yet nothing that she had said hurt so much.

I know so," I retorted quietly.

"That is good," she smiled. "Now we get back down to our bronze locks. Of Mabel we speak. If you want t that Jaime shall some talk to you all watch that girl she could get from Dick West the papers we need if she wanted to."

"She doesn't even know where the man is," I declared.

"She knows where it is likely he is. She knows him. She knows how he will make it to hide or not to hide. She knows who are his friends. His records—all known to her. But she does nothing. For senor West she has the pity they say is for love. Maybe she has also the eye that is kin to pity. She is insane to move. And you make none. Why, white lilac? Why—"

I wanted to speak a command to Rosa to stop but to use that very word of love's love name for me. But I did not interrupt her. And I was going to confess to her that there was so much as a flicker of jealousy in my heart. So I had to permit her to go on torturing me with the intimate personal of what I had a ways be eved was secret to Jim and me.

"Why do you make no move? Why do you let this Mabel Storrs stand between you Rancho and Jaime's office like a range of mountains? Is it that you love Mabel Storrs so much that you would not hurt her even for Jaime?" sneered Rosa, continuing her attack.

A COMFORTABLE WORK OR PORCH DRESS

4128. Here is a very pleasing house dress, that may also do duty as a "street dress" in cool style. The lines are simple. The sleeve may be in wrist length or finished with the cuff in elbow length.

The Pattern which is nice for garbardine, serge, gingham, percale, prints and crepe is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5¼ yards of 32 inch material. To trim as illustrated requires 1 yard. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2¾ yards.

A SPLENDID MODEL FOR GENERAL WEAR

4100. Here is a roomy, comfortable top garment, good for traveling, motoring or street wear. It may be made of carucul or other pile fabrics, as well as of tweed, mixtures, velours and similar cloakings.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 34-36; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size will require 5¼ yards of 44 inch material.

A JAUNTY SCHOOL FROCK

3853. For combining plain and plaid suiting, this is an excellent model. In gingham with chambrey, or serge, with plaid woolen, it will make a very becoming school dress. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or elbow length. The Pattern provides a straight belt, which may be replaced with a girdle or sash, or a belt of metal or wooden bead.

The sizes for this design are 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 10 year size will require 3¼ yards of 44 inch material.

A POPULAR MODEL

3921. Every "small" person likes comfort, and never more than at playtime. In this neat and simple play suit "fashion" has contrived to develop a practical garment. The smock and knickers are cut in one, so the garment stays "together," and is easy to adjust.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 1, 2, 3 and 4 years. A 2 year size will require 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material. Percale, crash, linen, gingham, chintz and cretonne are nice for this style.

A GOOD GARMENT FOR PLAYTIME

3874. Trim and neat, and altogether practical is the model portrayed here. The boy who likes to romp and run will welcome a play suit of this kind, with its spacious pockets, and comfortable lines. The style is good for wash fabrics, for serge, and poncee.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. A 4 year size requires 1⅝ yard of 27 inch material.

A POPULAR DAY DRESS

4153. A frock of this kind is neat and chic, and simplifies the work of the woman who makes it. The model is in "slip on" style. The bell shaped sleeve is comfortable and up-to-date. Plaits at the side seams, give added fullness to the skirt portions.

This Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 3¼ yards of 54 inch material. The width at the foot with plaits extended is about 2¼ yards.

A MODEL OF GOOD TASTE

3851. Here is a sleeveless model that is pleasing and practical. The armscye lines are cut high. The sleeves are joined to a gulmpe. For slender or mature figures this design is most suitable. Velveteen is here shown with a decoration of simple stitchery. Serge or duvetyn will also be good for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 4⅝ yards of 40 inch material. The width at the foot is 2¾ yards.

A NEW AND PLEASING DRESS FOR BREAKFAST OR SERVICE

Pattern 3469 was used to develop this style. It is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 32-34; Medium, 36-38; Large, 40-42; Extra Large, 44-46 inches bust measure. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2 yards. It will require 7⅞ yards of 27 inch material for this model in a Medium size.

Chambrey, crepe, linen, lawn, gingham, silk, washable satin, and seersucker could be used for this style.

MAN AND MAID By Elinor Glyn

By Elinor Glyn

MY triumph increased.

I removed my hand and appeared only to be intent upon Coralie's letter.

"Perhaps we each have friends which might bore the other, so when you want to have parties tell me, and I will arrange to go out, and when I want to, I will tell you. In that way we can never have any jars."

"Thank you. But I have no friends except the Duchesse, or very humble people who don't want to come to parties."

"But you will be making plenty of new friends now. I have some which you will meet out in the world which I daresay you won't care about, and some who come and dine with me sometimes, whom probably you would dislike."

"Yes—I know."

"How do you know?" I asked innocently, affecting surprise.

"I used to hear them when I was trying."

I smiled. I did not defend them.

"If you should chance to meet, would you be civil to them?"

"Of course, 'Coralie,' 'Odette' and 'Alice,' the Duchesse has often described them all! It was 'Coralie' who came to talk to you at Versailles in the park, was it not?"

Her voice was contemptuously amused and indifferent, but her little nostrils quivered. Underneath she was disturbed I knew.

"Yes, Coralie is charming; she knows more about how to put clothes on becomingly than any other woman."

"Do they dine often? Because I could perhaps arrange to go and have my meals lesson with Monsieur Trani on those evenings, twice a week or oftener?"

"You would refuse to meet them?" I pretended to be annoyed.

"Certainly not; one does not do ridiculous things like that. I will meet whoever you wish." I only thought it might spoil your pleasure if I were there, unless of course you have told them that I am only a permanent secretary masquerading under the name of your wife so that they need not restrain themselves."

Her face had become inscrutable. She was quite calm now. I grew uncertain again for a moment. Had I carried the bluff far enough?

"They have all quite charming manners, but as you infer they might not be so amused to come to the dinner of a married man. I think the last part of your speech was rather a reflection upon my sense of being a gentleman, though. I of course have not informed anyone of our quaint relations. But remember you told me once you did not think I was a gentleman, so I must not be offended now."

She did not speak; she was looking down and her eyelashes made a shadow on her cheeks. Her mouth was sad.

Suddenly something pathetic about her touched me. She is such a gallant little fighter.

She has had such an ugly, cruel life, and Oh! God she is growing to love me, and soon shall I be able to tell her that I worship the ground she walks on, and appreciate her proud spirit and great self-respect? But I cannot chance anything. I must go on and follow what I know to be sound psychological reasoning.

"I felt my will weakening then, she looked so perfectly exquisite there in the corner of the sofa. We were alone. It was nearly ten o'clock at night, the flowers were scenting the air, the lights were soft, the dinner had been perfection. After all, I am a man, and she legally belongs to me. I felt the blood rushing wildly in my veins. I had to clench my hands and shut my eyes.

"I expect you are tired now," I said a little breathlessly. "So I will say good-night—Mindy, and hope that you will sleep well the first night in your new home."

I got up and she came forward quickly to hand me my crutch.

"Good-night," she whispered quite low, but she never looked at me, then she turned and went slowly from the room, never glancing back. And when she had gone, instead of going to bed, I once more sank into my chair. I felt queerly faint, my nerves are not sound yet, I expect.

Well, what a strange wedding night!

Burton's face was a mask when he came to undress me.

Among the many strange scenes he has witnessed and assisted at, after forty years spent in ministering to the caprices of the aristocracy, I believe he thinks this is the strangest!

When I was in bed and he was about to go, I suddenly went into a peal of bitter laughter. He stopped near the door.

"Beg pardon, Sir Nicholas?" he said, as though I had called to him.

"Aren't women the weirdest things in the world, Burton?"

"They are, indeed, Sir Nicholas," and he smiled. "One and all, from Mamselle to ladies like her Ladyship, they do like to feel that a man belongs to themselves."

"You think that is it, Burton?"

"Not a doubt of it, Sir Nicholas."

"How do you know them so well, never having married, you old scallywag?"

"Perhaps that's why, Sir. A married man loses his spirit like—and his being able to see!"

"I seem lonely, don't I, Burton," and I laughed again.

"You do, Sir Nicholas, but if I may make so bold as to say so, I don't think you will be so very long. Her Ladyship sent out for a cup of tea directly she got to her room."

And with an indescribable look of blank innocence in his dear old eyes, this philosopher, and [illegible] student of women, respectfully left the room!

The day after my marriage I did not come into the salon until just before luncheon, at half-past twelve o'clock. My bride was not there.

"Her Ladyship has gone out walking, Sir Nicholas," Burton informed me as he settled me in my chair.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

After all, it isn't natural resources, it is men that make a town or a nation.

I've just been visiting Flint. Now, this spot in Michigan has no unique industrial or other advantages. Yet its population has grown from under twenty thousand to well over a hundred thousand in less than twenty years.

Why?

Because of a few men.

The chief three are W. C. Durant, the automobile wizard; who apparently knows how to rise after being knocked down; C. S. Mott, a Newark (N. J.) lad, who early migrated to Flint, built up a huge wire wheel and axle business and is now the General Motors king-pin in Detroit and through all its production territory, and J. D. Dort, who started as a buggy builder progressed into making automobiles.

All three are local heroes—and deservedly so, for they have done much to put Flint prominently on the map.

Billy Durant was rather a baron-scarum youth until he got interested in a carriage factory. Of an inventive turn of mind, he designed a new style of buggy, extremely light. Instead of ordering home to build a sample, and then went out and corraled enough orders to keep the shop busy for many months. Those talents he again demonstrated his wizardry as a salesman. Of course, he was made a partner.

Quick to sense the possibilities of the horseless carriage, he jumped into this business enthusiastically, even though his partner wouldn't jump with him.

Billy Durant proceeded to give his native town factories that are today among the most gigantic on the face of the earth.

The Buick was fathered by Durant. And for five years in succession Buick has turned out a greater volume of business from a dollars and cents standpoint than the other automobile factories in the world, with the exception of Ford.

Chevrolet was another Durant creation. It is now making, next to Ford, the largest number of cars of any company in America.

When Durant recently lost control of General Motors for the second time, he didn't forget Flint when looking for a fresh opening. Although he didn't build the very first new factory in his native town he is making up for it now for there is now in course of construction at Flint a mammoth plant where Durant plans to build a high class car at not a high price.

Mr. Dort finally, of course, had to turn from carriage building—which he and Durant had developed on a scale never approached by any other concern—to the making of automobiles. He went at it with a will, and when the auto boom came he expanded enormously—too much, it turned out, when the general business relapse occurred.

Mr. Dort has given Flint not only big work, but he has done more than any other man to make Flint a city of beauty and health. It has a delightful, artistic system of parks, swimming pools, recreation facilities, gardens, etc., thanks to the generosity, the foresight and the energy of this loyal citizen.

C. S. Mott, although he hasn't projected his personality on the public screen as Durant or even Dort has, nevertheless has done and is doing big things. Almost unaided, he developed the axle and wheel business into a mammoth enterprise.

With such men at the helm out here, and with giants like Pierre Du Pont, J. J. Raskob, A. P. Sloan, Jr., on the bridge in New York, General Motors, mighty leviathan though it is, ought to be steered to success.

UNITED RETAIL STORES AT NEW 1922 HIGH

Rails, oils and steel sold generally higher throughout the day in a strong New York market, with money renewing at 3½ and dropping to 3 per cent.

United Retail Stores, up 2¾ at 87½ on merger news, set a new 1922 high.

Prices were highest in the last hour, when the specialties came into prominence. Fisher Body raised 2, National Biscuit and Mexican Petroleum 1 each, while there were gains of around 3 points for Studebaker, Corn Products and Baldwin.

U. S. Steel lifted 1⅜ at 120⅞ on strong investment buying.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was a weak spot, off 4⅛ at 394¾, then rallying. American Locomotive rained over 2.

Suggestions of a change in sentiment among professionals was colored to some extent by the further upward progress of rails. Heading for railroads and various specialties was insistent at times, with Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Rock Island, New Haven, Chesapeake & Ohio and Allis-Chalmers foremost among a number of shares which advanced 2 to 4 points.

American Beet and Sugar yielded over two points.

The Liberty government 4¼ per cent. bonds dropped to 93.90, where buying orders were encountered and the price rallied to 93.96.

New Government Bonds Are Sold Sharply Off

Selling of the new 4¼ per cent. Government Bonds, recently three times oversubscribed, at par, at 93.90, a discount of $1.10 on $100 and 60 cents below Thursday's closing was the outstanding feature of New York bond dealings.

Other Government Bonds also suffered substantial reductions because of the heavy offerings of large institutions, presumably to acquire funds to meet increased demands for commercial credit.

Liberty 3 ½s sold off 22 cents first 4s, 80 cents and second 4s 36 cents, while the fourth bonds of the old 3 ½ series dropped 1 ⅞ points.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE IN SHARP RECOVERY

Foreign exchange made a sharp recovery through most of the list. Demand quotations were:

Sterling	Checks	Cables	Parity
Francs	4.36 3/64	4.36 5/64	4.8665
Belgium	4.29 9/16	4.29 11/16	4.3560

Wall St. Notes

BROOKLYN RAPID TRANSIT is now said to be due for some other form of financing than an assessment, which puts it into the "mystery stock" class.

LIQUIDATION dividends, as stock distributions are now called, are fine for the insiders, but not always so for the outsiders jumping in.

MANHATTAN SHIRT is reported reducing preferred stock. Stock bonus talk is heard.

PENNSYLVANIA, on Thursday, made its highest mark since 1918. Executives believe an indefinite period of good traffic lies ahead.

CHESAPEAKE & OHIO earnings this year are estimated at around $12 a share, but directors now opposed to dividend raise at December meeting. This is likely to cause bears.

READING looks as if it might take Mex Pete's place in the market as a speculative leader.

CONSOLIDATED GAS is talked of as a good buy on recessions.

VAN RAALTE common is due for big board listing soon. Earnings around $7.0 a share are claimed for 1922.

REYNOLDS SPRING for quarter ended September 30, reports balance of $118,339, or $1.61 a share on 73,000 shares of common, a rate of $6.44 a year. Earnings for the first six months on the common were at the annual rate of $5 a share.

INDIANHOMA REFINING COMPANY reports, for nine months ended September 30, gross of $1,156,614; reserves $68,000; interest $220,632; net earnings $682,082.

WOOLWORTH sales continue to break records, and if increase of 29 per cent. over 1921, shown in September and continued so far this month, be maintained, company will close 1922 with sales exceeding $170,000,000.

PRINCE & WHITELY—Increase of Pennsylvania dividend in factor of great importance, greater than generally realized, representing most conservative opinion as to outlook for carriers.

J. S. BACHE & CO.—The current decline has consisted of sufficient proportions to warrant looking for a volume day to round out the movement.

F. B. KEECH & CO.—We look for further improvement in the rails generally, but would be inclined to sell the industrials.

THOMPSON & McKINNON—Would take advantage of every turn of the market that offers a moderate profit.

Judge Your Young Man by These Pictures

Which Pleases Him Better? Which Would He Choose?

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

What is success, what is beauty, what is PLEASING TO MEN?

Try these two pictures on your favorite young man, dear young ladies. Or let the young gentleman try them on himself. If he gives you the result frankly you may know more about him than you know now.

Here She Is When She Reaches America, Where She Certainly Had a Lively Time. How Do You Like Her as Compared With the Lady Below?

These two pictures are reproduced by permission from the November number of Cosmopolitan Magazine. They are made by that very talented young artist, McGurk, to illustrate O. O. McIntyre's short story, "A Love Story of the Wickedest Street in America."

Here in the first picture you see the heroine in her sad UNSUCCESSFUL DAYS.

She has just landed from Poland, seeking happiness, fame, money, "success" in this country. She lands eventually in "The Wickedest Street," then in brightest Broadway. Here she is before she gets there.

Mr. McIntyre tells you the story of this young creature, her life in a camp, in a box car, in the wickedest street, leading up to the grand Broadway theatre. You read of a charming, high-spirited young man that met her, and all the rest of it. If such things interest you, read about it in the NOVEMBER COSMOPOLITAN.

But these two pictures are printed for young American women who would like to apply to some young gentleman the "touchstone" of good judgment and good taste as regards GIRLS.

Here Is the Same Young Lady a Little Later When She Has "Achieved Success in a Gilt Broadway Dansant." Ask Your Young Man: "How Do You Like Her Now?"

Young ladies, if you are uncertain about the assortment of young men you know, show each of them these two pictures, asking each, "Which do you like best?"

Lend a friendly ear and eye to the young man that chooses the girl with the heavy bundle, the peasant's shawl, the ugly shoes.

Be careful about the other young gentleman who prefers the same girl after she has changed her respectable shabby skirt for the bare legs and the puff ball around her waist.

Very pretty she is in the second picture, but REMEMBER, it is the lady in the next picture that appears in the divorce cases, the little early-in-the-morning shootings and other incidents.

Each man in his life will see

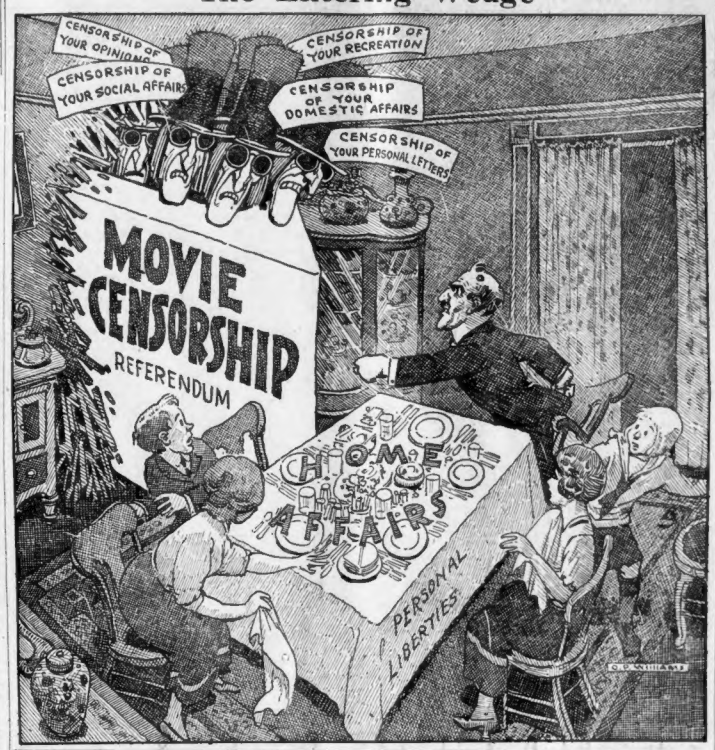
The Entering Wedge



Velvet Trousers for Women

LONDON, Oct. 27. — Beauty may now wear black velvet trousers instead of an ordinary evening skirt.

Probably the dress critics will not approve, and for the present, at any rate, the velvet trousers will most likely appear only in the home.

Still, they have come, so there's no knowing when they may make their public appearance.

They made their debut in Albermarle street, where Miss Elspeth Phelps was showing Autumn fashions, and so far as grace and line are concerned the feminine version of the trousers is far ahead of that worn by ordinary man.

There is a puff, too, just above the knee and another below it that stops short a few inches above the ankle, and the black velvet model seen was topped by a jumper of rose-colored velvet, embroidered in gold and silver thread and hemmed with dark fur.

The general result was somewhat suggestive of a "Little Princess in the Tower" toilette, but the wearer, at least, carried it off very well.

There are other sensations in the dress world to be recorded. One is the use of airplane silk for smart gowns—one of the minor and quite unforeseen results of the war.

This was dyed yellow and used to make a teagown, the surface of which was decorated with rings of black monkey fur, each circle showing a turquois-embroidered motif in the centre.

Then, again, there is the fashion of wearing a miniature holster round what is called by courtesy the waistline. The effect can be arrived at in a variety of ways, generally by twisting a length of the dress material to the required thickness. To be correct, a sort of holster disdem of velvet or tissue should be worn as a headdress.

Another novelty is reversible velour. On one side it shows the woven surface of the material so popular for coats and skirts, but the reverse is shot satin, and so the use of extra material for collar and cuffs is unnecessary.

Home Market Club Favors Protection for Women and Minors

Editor Boston American:

In your comment in Wednesday evening's issue of the Boston American you say that Senator Lodge's plea for a constitutional amendment to protect women and children in industry was coldly received at the Home Market Club dinner in Symphony Hall.

The Home Market Club, although it is a national organization, is composed largely of New England manufacturers. The audience at its annual dinner at Symphony Hall, Tuesday night, was made up, to a very great extent, of Massachusetts manufacturers. The State labor laws in Massachusetts are more stringent than any other State in the Union. The laws for the protection of children and women are far in advance of those adopted by competing States. The members of the Home Market Club, instead of becoming "cold to the point of hostility" at Senator Lodge's plea for national child labor laws, spoke to a man that it was not only just and wise, but also a peculiar benefit to Massachusetts, as it would bring other States in line with the more enlightened policy which has been in force for years in this State.

WILLIAM H. CLIFF,
Secretary, Home Market Club.

Tricky Transfers

Editor Boston American:

It appears to me that Mayor Curley is right. We should have a five-cent fare, then we would not mind so much when we have to pay extra fares. And I also believe when a person pays ten cents for a ten-cent ride, he should get it and not be required to pay twenty cents for same. I am employed upon work which takes me to numerous places, and can't always tell what color my transfer should be. A short time ago I was in Arlington and changed cars at Clarendon Hill, paying a dime, and asked for a transfer to Sullivan Square for elevated to Everett station. When I arrived at Sullivan square, I found out I had been given a five-cent transfer, and it would not be accepted. I was told I would have to pay another full fare, or go to the office. I went to the office and after being requested to give description of person who issued transfer, time of taking car and place, was told I should get the right transfers. I had to give my name and address before I was allowed to continue my ride.

Stalled Football Traffic

Editor Boston American:

I trust the police traffic arrangements for people returning from the football game tomorrow will be better than last Saturday. There was no officer at the corner of Massachusetts and Commonwealth avenues at 4 o'clock. There were cars stalled all the way back to Cambridge bridge. A woman was ahead of me and refused to move even when she had a chance until I got out and argued with her. Let us have better service. "DOC."

Grouch Becomes Catching

By Winifred Black

WHAT in the world is the matter with Betsy?

Betsy used to be the jolliest, best-looking, biggest-hearted, most popular woman I know. Yes, Betsy's a woman, though her friends call her a bachelor maid. She's about thirty, I should think, is Betsy.

And she's just as clever as she can be. She's had a dozen chances to marry, has Betsy. She's good-looking and witty and she has something about her that makes her attractive to men.

She wears her clothes well, for one thing, and she can dance and skate and ride and swim, and she plays the ukulele and makes funny little songs for vacation times; and she's so good natured and obliging—Oh! you simply have to like Betsy!

She's interested in girls and likes to help them. Whenever you meet Betsy in the street, she's always taking some girl to lunch or to the matinee or to a concert or something, and the pretty little flat where she lives—what a darling she's made of it—with its soft, gray walls and its rich hangings and its fireplace, and its teatime nook—well, that flat is the gathering place for all the girls with problems in town.

That's the way it was six months ago, but the other day I met Margaret. Margaret is one of Betsy's girls, and when I asked about Betsy, Margaret said: "I haven't seen her for some time." And she didn't say anything more.

And then I met Kate, and Kate hadn't seen Betsy for a long time. And then I met Mary and Mary hadn't much to say about Betsy.

And then I met Betsy, herself. And we went to luncheon together, and Betsy talked all through that luncheon—about what, do you suppose?

About a woman she doesn't like, a mean, ungracious, quarrelsome, envious, jealous woman. And the queer thing is that when Betsy talks about her, she herself seems ungracious, quarrelsome, envious and jealous.

Now what I want to know is this: Is it my duty to tell Betsy what she's letting her quarrels with the woman do to her, or shall I just let her drift on till she has alienated every one of her real friends and has nothing to think about but the mean woman and her ways?

What would you do about it—honestly, now?

SEEN AND HEARD

TWENTY-ONE Boston people have recently joined the English-Speaking Union, whose headquarters are at Trafalgar Building, London. This society is organized to bring about better feeling between England and the United States. It has nearly a million members in America and among recent Bostonians who have joined are EDWARD A. FILENE and MARY L. PILLSBURY of Mt. Vernon street.

COUNCILLOR DENNIS A. HOGAN of Springfield intends to introduce at the next session of the City Council a resolution proposing that a doctor examine each and every football player before he enters a game in order to determine whether or not he is physically fit to play. This to the result of the death of one player and the injury of two others in a game played last week.

Remarkable growth of Boston's shoe district is little appreciated. On one street alone in this section there are several hundred stores and offices, representing all branches of the trade. W. H. O'BRIEN, trustees' agent for a great new building in process of erection, reports much of it already snapped up by shoe men eager to find an opening in this market place, probably the largest of its kind in the world.

Roxbury, N. H., only about four miles from the city of Keene, has the distinction of being the smallest town in the Granite State, with less than a dozen male voters. It also boasts a "deserted church," built in Colonial days, with pews facing the door instead of the pulpit, so that the settlers might be on guard against Indian attacks.

One Boston clergyman breaks away from the conventional ways and smokes his large French briar while taking his daily constitutional on Boylston street. REV. WILLIAM H. DEWART, rector of the Old North Church, Salem street, is keeping up the traditions of the old rectors of this historic church.

That big buffalo at the Franklin Park Zoo is now said to be the largest specimen of his kind in the world, having taken on weight tremendously in the past few months. CURATOR MORSE does not deny the assertion that the great animal served as sculptor's model when the comparatively new buffalo nickel was designed.

"Life is Sweet," reads an automobile traffic sign on Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, "So Sound Your Horn!" As a matter of fact, they say, there has never been an accident in the vicinity of the sign. Does such originality really save life?

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON MOUNTAIN DEBATE

By Garrett P. Serviss

STAYING for a few weeks recently in the mountains of Avery County, North Carolina, which are dominated by the lofty, multiple-peaked, precipice-browed, rugged-faced Grandfather Mountain, one of the most inspiring eminences that mark the site of ancient Appalachia, the eastern backbone of America, I became interested in a debating society which held its meetings in a mission house in the little, green, mountain-ringed valley of Linville.

I could hardly believe my ears when told that on a certain night people from two or three neighboring mountain villages would assemble in the mission house and listen to an oratorical discussion by two or three speakers on each side, of the time-honored topic: "Resolved, that the works of nature make a stronger appeal to the human mind than art."

A farmer called "the Abraham Lincoln of Linville" was to open the debate on the affirmative side.

He was a short but athletic man, with a large nose and blue-gray eyes. He had a good voice, but a bad habit of dropping his tones at times almost to a whisper.

His manner was dramatic; his reliance was upon eloquent description, not upon close argument or logic, so that while he was no Lincoln he might have been called an echo of Patrick Henry.

He called Grandfather Mountain to his aid, and rested his case upon it. He personified the towering crest, with its marvelous environment of clinging forests and impenetrable ravines of bold, jutting promontories of rock, cut sharp against the high blue of the sky, or curled round with clouds, and of enormous supporting buttresses, reaching miles away for a firm bracing hold to enable them to resist the pressure of that mighty pile.

A visiting city preacher rose against him, with elegant pulpit eloquence, but the man of the mountains, with his "grandfather," got the unanimous decision of the judges.

A native Abraham Lincoln is a godsend to them—a self-educated man, who reads with a purpose, who thinks over what he reads, who calls his fellows, men and women, to assemble periodically and listen to debates on various subjects of general human interest, and whose sole desire, as he told me, is to spread as widely as possible the knowledge that he has acquired, to obtain more, and to promote American patriotism by American methods.

—Says Medbury—

There Is a Costumer Who Will Outfit You to Win the Sympathy of the Judge

Many a man who tries to pass through bankruptcy loses out because he isn't dressed right when he goes into court. There is a costumer in town who will outfit you properly in order to win the sympathy of the judge.

Attorneys are good things to have, but a worn out suit and a pair of old shoes speak louder than a lawyer. For two dollars this costuming place will rent you the coat and pants that Methuselah used to wear when he worked around the house.

And for fifty cents more they'll throw in the boots worn by one of the soldiers who crossed the Dead Sea.

One guy wore his makeup when he went into court and the judge felt so sorry for him that he dismissed the case and lent him six dollars besides.

Of course, you're supposed to have a sad face, too, and you can get one by listening to some of your father-in-law's stories.

It's best also to have a growth of beard and you can get this one by going into a telephone booth and waiting for a number.

Still one man tried this and got his number right away.

The shock was so great he wasn't able to go to court.

When you tell the judge you've only got one dime in the world you want to be able to prove it, so it's best to take a dime along to show him.

But if you've only got a fifty-dollar bill, don't make a mistake and ask the judge to change it for you.

both kinds. Pick out if you can the young man that won't be too much attracted by the second kind, with the puff ball skirt. He is apt to belong to the class described in our quick-change marriage arrangements as the man "that wants to change one FORTY for two TWENTIES." The two "twenties," needless to say, are two young ladies, each twenty years old, to be gladly accepted in place of another FORTY years old.

You know, dear young ladies, that old fable of the sleek, smooth pussy cat that was changed into a beautiful princess. She was a perfect princess at first; everything went well for a long time. She sat at the royal table, and no one suspected how she really felt until a mouse ran across the floor. Then she jumped head first at the mouse, and her friends knew more than they knew before.

Use these two pictures as your test "mouse" to find out something about your young man.
